VANCOUVER—Tired of looking at the factory end of cows?

Then come to the Pacific National Exhibition next year where you may get the new look in '64 bovines.

The trend in view: more front and less rear. Harry Mulholland, PNE president, said livestock show people like to poke and peer at the business half of a show animal, but city folk would rather see its face.

"Now exhibitions in Canada and the U.S. are studying the idea of putting the animals in the stall back-end first," he said.

The change will present expensive problems, but least among them keeping the stalls clean when all the trouble lies up at the far end.

Still, says Mulholland, a city boy himself, the public must be served and the idea will be given full consideration by PNE officials.

* * * PHOENIX, Ariz. — Cassius Clay called himself the "most colorful fighter in the world" in a letter of apology to the California highway patrol for a traffic ticket.

But a justice of the peace said if the fighter doesn't appear he'll issue a warrant. Clay was cited Dec. 9 for driving without a licence near Dateland in southern Arizona.

Clay, who fights Sonny Liston next year for the heavyweight crown, said in his letter: "In answer to this card (citation) I apologize. I was in such a rush to get one of my staff to a dentist is the reason I took the wheel.

"I am the most colorful fighter in the world today and I trust all of you will be my fans."

* * * WASHINGTON — President Johnson's economy drive hit the bureaucrats Thursday where it hurts most—right in the status symbols.

The budget bureau issued orders cutting by 75 per cent the number of chauffeured limousines and other luxury vehicles used by government officials in the United States and around the world.

When the dust settles and the screams subside, only 20 official limousines and no heavy sedans will be plying the broad avenues of Washington. There now are 131 bearing the top hands of the executive agencies.

* * * ST. PAUL, Minn.—What's light and fluffy and weighs 2,300 pounds? A cookie, that's what.

That was the winning entry in a contest sponsored by Radio Station KDWB, which offered $1.63 a pound for the biggest Christmas cookie produced by listeners.

Paul Goodman, a Bethel College student, sold $1 shares to classmates to finance the makings, then produced the monster cookie in big slabs, gluing them together in the back of a pickup truck. He won $3,479.

Goodman spent $450 for ingredients. The cookie is nine feet long, 3½ feet wide and 16 inches thick.

* * * SPRINGFIELD, Mo.—A pretty little girl jumped on the lap of a department store Santa Claus and gave him a pre-Christmas hug.

She rubbed her chubby rosy cheeks against his snow-white whiskers and whispered: "Know what I got?"

"No," said Santa, David Serrell, a student at Central Bible Institute here.

"The mumps," replied the little girl.

Moaned Santa later: "And I haven't had them yet."

* * * AUSTIN, Tex.—Twenty students picketed Lynda Bird Johnson's dormitory at the University of Texas Thursday night because it is racially segregated.

All other co-ed dormitories at the university also are segregated.

Bill Spearman of Houston, spokesman for the pickets, said the demonstration was not intended as a personal reflection on the 19-year-old daughter of President Johnson.

He said her hall, Kinsolving Dormitory, was chosen "to bring attention to the fact that there is still segregation at the university."

* * * TAIPEI, Formosa—A 25-year-old Vancouver man who is hitch-hiking around the world arrived in Taipei Thursday from Hong Kong for a two-week visit to Formosa.

The man, Bernard L. Betts, began his journey in July, 1961, with $100 and 60 pounds of luggage.

From Formosa he is to visit Japan and South Korea before returning home. Betts is to leave here Saturday for a tour of Formosa.

Betts has visited 55 countries in Europe, Africa, the Middle East and Southeast Asia. He has earned his living doing odd jobs during his 2½ years of travelling.

McNamara Optimistic On Viet Nam

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Defence Secretary McNamara, winding up consultations on South Viet Nam's war against Communist guerrillas, said today, "I am optimistic over progress to be made during the coming year."

McNamara and top American officials based in Viet Nam had an afternoon-long conference with the ruling junta, including chief of state Maj.-Gen. Duong Va Minh and Premier Nguyen Ngoc Tho.

The secretary, who had been given a sombre briefing by U.S. officers on events since the Nov. 1 coup that overthrew President Ngo Dinh Diem, said Minh explained in detail the Vietnamese military plans for 1964.

McNamara took off tonight for Honolulu, where he was to have a two-hour conference with Admiral Harry D. Felt, commander of U.S. forces in the Pacific.

Murder Trial Set

McDonald, 46, a Newmarket, Ont., laborer, was committed Thursday for trial on a charge of capital murder in the death of 10-year-old Thomasina Baker in August, 1962.

Later, NDP Leader T. C. Douglas asked whether Mr. Chevrier was aware that Wasylenchuk was on parole when he signed the extradition warrant.

Mr. Chevrier said "I've answered that question, I believe."

Mr. Douglas said he hadn't answered it.

It was at this point that Mr. Diefenbaker asked what Mr. Chevrier had told Mr. Perrault—whether in fact he told him he didn't know about Wasylenchuk being on parole when the warrant was signed.

"I'm sure I didn't make that statement," Mr. Chevrier said.

STRESSSES POINT

Mr. Chevrier stressed that the point about a parolee being extradited was not raised "until afterwards."

This was why, he said, his parliamentary secretary, Donald S. Macdonald (L-Toronto-Rosedale), phoned the warden at Oakalla Prison after the warrant was signed.

The minister said Mr. Macdonald got a phone call from Mr. Perrault who was speaking "on behalf of a legal committee" raising the point about parole.

Mr. Chevrier said Mr. Perrault also raised a question about the warrant being signed before the habeas corpus proceedings were completed. But Mr. Chevrier said, "This was not the case."

Mr. Chevrier said Mr. Perrault told Mr. Macdonald that execution of the warrant was imminent and asked Mr. Macdonald to phone the warden at Oakalla.

Mr. Macdonald complied with that request, Mr. Chevrier said.

Replying to Mr. Diefenbaker, the minister said Mr. Macdonald had not phoned border officials.

Mr. Douglas said it appeared that Mr. Macdonald tried to stop the extradition and, when this was unsuccessful, the legal opinion about extraditing a parolee was "concocted to fit the situation."

Frank Howard (NDP-Skeena) asked Prime Minister Pearson whether, in view of the "disclosures" today, he would "dispense with the services of the minister of justice or clean out the justice department."

"MOST INSULTING"

Obviously angry, Mr. Pearson said it was a "most insulting" question and he would not honor or dignify it with a reply.

Later, Mr. Diefenbaker asked the minister to refer the question to the Supreme Court of Canada for an opinion on whether what was done was legal or not. A reading of the two statutes, he said, challenges the government to do this to ensure no injustice is done.

Mr. Chevrier replied that he couldn't see why this case should be referred to the Supreme Court any more than half a dozen other extradition orders he had signed. To refer the Wasylenchuk case to the country's highest court "does not appeal to me at the moment."

6. Defence expenditures be projected several years ahead as a percentage of gross national product.

7. An "independent committee of inquiry" into allegations of navy inefficiency by retired Commodore James Plomer.

8. More effective reviews of defence organization, manpower management and utilization to achieve greater efficiency.

The committee asked that it be reconstituted at the next session of Parliament to deal with matters which required more scrutiny and that the present members be reappointed.

It recommended establishment of a permanent Commons defence committee with a technical staff.

Change-up Pitch Facing Sockeye

By FRANK RUTTER

Science will try to change the sockeye salmon life cycle in the Fraser River next year.

That is the reason the International Pacific Salmon Fisheries Commission has closed the Strait of Juan de Fuca for nearly all the 1964 fishing season.

According to commission director Loyd Royal, strikes in the fishing industry have drastically affected the salmon cycle.

READJUSTMENT

Next year's closure is an attempt to readjust the cycle on the Chilkot River, one of the major spawning grounds.

This year was the peak of the four-year Chilkot cycle. It was the second largest Chilkot run since 1903.

CHANGE TO 1968

With the control on spawning that comes with a normal year's commercial fishing, the next peak would have been 1967. The commission's aim is to change it to 1968.

The long strike that halted fishing this summer meant too many sockeye escaped to the Chilkot spawning grounds. Because two and a half times too many fish reached the spawning grounds there was not enough room for them to lay their eggs.

NESTS DESTROYED

Later arrivals destroyed the nests of earlier spawners. Disease was another factor, and many sockeye never spawned at all.

The end result was that only about 10 per cent of the run spawned, Mr. Royal said.

Because this could spoil the Chilkot run for many years before a new peak, the commission decided to attempt a change in the cycle.

The aim now is to make 1964 a peak year to replace 1963.

CURTAILMENT

This can only be done by curtailing commercial fishing because the normal 1964 run would be quite small.

But if nearly all the fish are allowed to escape, the Chilkot spawning ground will be well stocked.

Then the next peak in the cycle will be 1968.

21 Go on Trial For Auschwitz

FRANKFURT (AP) — Nazi guards went on trial today in West Germany's biggest war crimes trial and testified that they had tried to dodge duty in Auschwitz concentration camp but were unsuccessful.

Twenty guards and an ex-trustee were charged with taking part in the death of millions of prisoners of the camp in Nazi-occupied Poland which became Hitler's most efficient death factory.

They were accused of murder or complicity in an undetermined number of gassings, shootings, hangings or fatal torture.

Former SS (elite guard) Capt. Rudolf Mulka, 68, highest ranking among the defendants, told the court he did not know that Auschwitz was a concentration camp before he reported to Camp Commander Rudolf Hoess in 1942.

Hoess was hanged in Poland in 1947. He kept a diary, which is part of the evidence, in which he described Auschwitz atrocities in detail. Most of the victims were Jews, but many Poles and Russians also died at Auschwitz.

INSULTED LEADER

Mulka said he did not want to become a Nazi party member and that he was kicked out of his Nazi leader post for insulting a Nazi leader.

Two other defendants said they made every effort to avoid their concentration camp assignment but were refused transfer by superiors.

There was no immediate testimony on actual conditions in Auschwitz.

There was scant public interest. Sixty seats were reserved for the public but they were not filled.

Originally there were 22 defendants, but one, Dr. Franz Lucas, was ill and the court ruled he would be tried separately.

CHARGED WITH MURDER

Mulka and 11 others, including a doctor and two dentists, are being tried on charges of complicity. Ten men, among them the chief camp pharmacist, are charged with murder. The maximum sentence any could draw is life imprisonment. Capital punishment was abolished in West Germany in 1949.

It has taken more than four years to prepare the case. Hearings will probably run until next fall. About 250 witnesses, including Auschwitz survivors, are to testify.

CATTLE SHOT 'FOR REAL'

LOWER BRULE, S.D. (UPI)—The riflemen stood on the thin ice in the bitter prairie wind and fired away. One, two, three... and finally all 120 of the numbed, imprisoned cattle slumped dead.

It was like a scene from the movie, "Hud," in which a rancher drove his herd into a pit and shot them to stop the spread of hoof-and-mouth disease.

But this time it was for real and the men lifted their deer rifles and shot again and again into the icy pit. It was an act of mercy for the cattle.

Canada's Role Shifts Subtly

Alex Young, Times Ottawa correspondent, was with the press corps at this week's Paris meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. Today he starts a series of articles on the part Canada plays in NATO and some of the changes in its status.

By ALEX YOUNG
Times Ottawa Bureau

PARIS—While the NATO ministerial conference went little further than affirming an international Christmas spirit of peace and goodwill, for Canada the meetings held a more concrete significance.

Young

Canada was undergoing a subtle but certain shift away from a mainly nuclear role in the alliance towards either a combined nuclear-conventional assignment, or a solely conventional one.

It became clear at the conference that the political importance of this to Canadians is great, for the nuclear issue is one which helped bring down the former Diefenbaker government and put the Liberals in power in the April general election.

Just a year ago, in fact, then Prime Minister Diefenbaker suggested after the Nassau agreement between the United States and Great Britain that the agreement, in partially upholding more conventional forces for NATO, indirectly meant Canada no longer needed to fill a nuclear role.

Review Under Way
A re-thinking and review of our military posture in the alliance was required, Mr. Diefenbaker argued last December. This December in Paris members of the Canadian delegation, representing a Liberal government, were arguing along the same lines.

"Flexibility" and "diversification" were perhaps the most frequently-used words by spokesmen for Canada. They were echoed with emphasis by U.S. and British delegates, although the conference communiqué itself did not—as it had following last May's council meeting in Ottawa—make any direct reference to the need for balancing NATO's conventional strength with its overwhelming nuclear strength.

The communiqué did, however, contain an indirect reference to the subject by noting the study of NATO military strategy launched last May was under way.

Justification for the shift in Canadian policy—a shift which likely will be spelled out in detail by Defence Minister Paul Hellyer in his defence white paper early in 1964—was given by sources by Canadian representatives at the Paris conference.

Search Not New
The statement of NATO Secretary-General Dirk Stikker, for instance, that the principle of a "nuclear-conventional flexibility" for NATO had been accepted by NATO members, was a new and significant development, one Canadian spokesman said.

"Full support of the approach we are taking," he maintained.

The chief motivation for the Canadian search for a different policy, however, is not something that is new.

It is simply the refusal of France to permit storage of U.S. nuclear warheads on French soil if they are not under French control. This has been a long-standing policy of France and once forced the U.S. to remove from France some of its nuclear squadrons.

Canadian plans—despite knowledge of the French policy—were to place four squadrons of CF-104 Starfighter low-level nuclear bombers in France at two bases, with U.S. nuclear weapons under joint U.S.-Canada control.

Now that the time for delivery of the nuclear bombs is drawing near, a decision has to be made as to what to do about the problem.

Canadians at the NATO conference said negotiations were under way with the French on the question and expressed hope for a quick solution; they were quick to indicate, however, that it wouldn't be a nuclear solution.

Stay In France

The possibility of having smaller advance action bases for these squadrons say in West Germany, while maintaining their home bases in France, is frowned upon as impractical militarily.

This leaves the possibilities of moving the French-based planes to entirely new bases outside France, or of spending the necessary funds to convert them from their solely nuclear capability to a conventional one.

It was learned in Paris that the Royal Canadian Air Force leans towards leaving them in France and re-equipping them for a conventional role. This would fill the Canadian government's apparent wishes to meet NATO's desired flexibility—a combined nuclear and conventional role—nuclear in Germany, conventional in France.

Waiting for a Bus

THE LEGAL FOG IN WHICH the buses of the B.C. Hydro Authority travel at present is the least of the problems faced by the transit systems in this city and Vancouver.

The doubts about the legal status of B.C. Hydro, arising from the decision of Chief Justice Sherwood Lett rejecting the legislation which created it, can be easily dissipated by further legislation at the next session of the provincial government. But the problem of how to convert the transit systems into paying propositions is a much more difficult one. Present indications are that higher fares for bus rides will be sought. This could well compound the difficulties.

Buses in Victoria and Vancouver operate in an overall environment of private car ownership. Only parking troubles, the reluctance of women drivers to travel in heavy traffic, or similar deterrents act to keep down the number of private vehicles on the streets. The result is that almost everyone who has a car uses it daily—to get to work, to go shopping, for pleasure.

This means that only the transportation left-overs—non-car owners, wives in one-car families, some schoolchildren, the aged—use the public buses. Even including peak hours the number of users is not sufficient to keep the transit system on a profitable basis. Subsidies, from electricity users, have been the answer for many years.

Under these circumstances, an increase in bus fares is very likely to result in a still further decline in bus use. All who can will switch to the private cars they would prefer in any case. More children will be taken to school by parents, more wives will acquire "second cars."

More workers will arrange to ride with neighbors. Only the aged, the least able to pay, will be trapped.

There is a growing conviction that the whole question of community public transportation now requires a new appraisal: not merely the matter of fares but the basic facts of its existence.

It is generally agreed that any community needs a public transportation system of some kind. There cannot be abandonment of all those unable or unwilling to drive themselves. But how can it be made to pay its way? A subsidized system tends to be cut to the point where it serves no one properly, and thus further discourages possible customers.

More attention should be paid to encouraging residents to use the buses. In the circumstances which now exist in Victoria, it might be an appropriate time for the downtown merchants once more to assess the possibilities of attracting potential customers to their stores by encouraging bus traffic.

Many firms now pay the parking charges for car drivers. Could they not, through some receipting arrangement, similarly pay the bus fares of pedestrian customers? Could there be a cheap shuttle service to carry customers in from parking places on a ring around the city centre? Could some new type of vehicle be employed?

None of these suggestions may be feasible. But they exemplify the type of thinking which should be done if a solution to the public transportation problem is to be found. The present process of slow attrition is equally not feasible, for it is in reality little more than a matter of glumly waiting for the inevitable end.

Not Ready for the Test

BRITISH COLUMBIA PORTS have never been busier than they are right now with record export loadings of lumber and minerals being swelled by cargoes of wheat and flour destined for Russia and other foreign customers.

Unfortunately, the heavy demand has strained the loading capacity of the ports, particularly Vancouver, and is leading to costly delays for shipping. There seems to have been little advance preparation by anyone to meet the situation. In Vancouver on Monday, for instance, six Russian ships were anchored in the harbor unable to take on flour because of a shortage of longshoremen. Other shipping has been held up at Vancouver and other ports, because there have not been enough men to handle their cargoes.

This is a situation which could affect future sales of the commodities involved, particularly wheat and flour, in years when the demand is not so great and fast shipment is more important.

Admittedly there are difficulties in expanding work crews in the shipping industry since there is such fluctuation in demand for labor. The longshoremen's union is understandably reluctant to enlarge the membership to meet peak demand only to have a large part of the men idled when business slackens.

In Vancouver there are about 65 eight-man longshore gangs working—the whole union membership in fact—but there is work for an estimated 120 gangs or an additional 400 men. There are also plenty of unemployed, able-bodied men available for the work.

The union has agreed to consider next week expanding its membership by another 100 men, but even this will be far from enough to work the ships as fast as they should be worked.

It would seem reasonable, in view of the importance of protecting repeat export business, that the union should open the door to more employment on the docks. The extra men taken on should be warned, of course, that the work is only temporary, but at the going rate of $3.05 an hour there should be no lack of applicants.

If Canada's West Coast ports get an international reputation as costly places to take on cargo, the long-term result is likely to be that western export business will suffer—and the longshoremen along with it.

Bring It Into the Light

MR. LESLIE PETERSON HAS called for a check on the selection of teachers in British Columbia and for a report on a Nanaimo incident which led to the imprisonment of a teacher involved in a morals case there.

It would be useful if the minister could give publicity to the information he receives. The public mind is always disturbed by such occurrences as that in Nanaimo. Inevitably, they reflect on the whole profession.

Parents of school children in British Columbia need some reassurance that a person released by one school board for action detrimental to students is not engaged by another set of trustees in ignorance of the reasons for his release.

Moreover the public should be better informed on the fact that the council of public instruction can suspend or cancel for cause a teacher's certificate and also that the British Columbia Teachers Federation has certain authority to suspend or cancel certificates, though the teacher can appeal from the BCTF discipline. The public should be left with no doubts that these powers are exercised when necessary.

A very unhappy condition arises when there is at least the appearance of failure by one board to keep another informed on a situation of grave concern to pupils and their parents.

When public confidence is so shaken, frank talk and resolute action are required from the authorities—in this case the minister, after he has been adequately informed of the facts. Part of the necessary action, it seems, should be the insistence that when a board forces the severance of a teacher from his job, the reasons for the board's course should be made clear to other trustees who might be hiring.

What Kind of a History?

THE PROPOSAL TO PUBLISH a standard textbook of Canadian history to be used in schools from coast to coast has been endorsed as a Canadian centennial project, "if," says The Canadian Press report, "historians can agree on the facts."

The creation of such a volume would be a splendid gesture to mark the birth of Canadian nationhood, provided such a history could be compiled not as a jingoistic propaganda book, not as a dull recital of hackneyed incidents in some old histories, but as a vital, authoritative volume appealing to all Canadians, particularly the young.

There might be some difficulties in producing such a history. They shouldn't be any more insurmountable than solving the separatist problem, reconciling Canada's urban and rural differences, securing complete approval for biculturalism or restoring government accounts to the "black."

'An Integral Part of the Community'

When Dr. Malcolm Taylor, principal of the University of Alberta, Calgary, spoke at the founding of the University of Victoria last July 2, no one at the campus ceremony, least of all he, knew that within six months he would be named president of the Gordon Head institution. Herewith are excerpts from the address he delivered on that occasion, telling us what he believes a university should be and also, by implication, outlining the principles on which he now will base his presidency.

A well-understood fact of academic life, as of life in any other institution of our free society, is that it thrives best in an environment of spirited rivalry. And if we believe in competition in the market place, how much greater is the need for competition among the market places of ideas.

In your development, you are moving in the tradition of great universities that have been spurred by greater rivals: for Harvard is better because of Yale and vice versa; Oxford is better because of Cambridge, and vice versa; Toronto because of Queen's; and, if I may be so bold as to say so, Edmonton, because of Calgary, and vice versa.

As the chancellor of the University of California, Berkeley, said to me, "If Stanford had not been there as an independent rival, we should have had to create it."

One needs no crystal ball to forecast that the University of British Columbia, already great, will be greater yet because, in part, of the rivalry in academic excellence that the University of Victoria represents.

A university is a human institution and an integral part of the community that supports it and which it serves. Although the greater part of what it achieves depends upon the quality and dedication of the faculty, on its students, and on the leadership of its president and board, a great deal also depends upon the community.

Community support must be of two kinds: financial and moral. Great and overwhelming though the need for the first is, the need for the second is even greater. In a world increasingly intolerant and demanding increasing conformity, a university stands today, as it always has, as a bastion of freedom, a citadel of liberty, a place where men are free to bring their intellects to bear on the great wonders of the universe and the universal problems of man without fear or favor, bias or preconception.

As the Poet Laureate, John Masfield, has written: "There are few earthly things more splendid than a university. It is a place where those who have ignorance may strive to know; where those who perceive truth may strive to make others see. Wherever it stands, it stands and shines; wherever it exists, the free minds of men, urged on to a fair and full inquiry, may still bring wisdom into human affairs."

With the battle-lines drawn in a world divided in a war of ideas, the independence and integrity of universities become increasingly difficult to maintain. Their preservation requires faculty leaders, administrators, and board members of great courage and integrity. But leaders are human; they are subject to error. Therefore they may require your understanding, your confidence, and your support. You, as well as they, must be prepared to stand up and be counted on the side of truth and academic freedom.

Academic freedom like freedom of the press, although certainly important to the university and to the newspaper, is absolutely indispensable to a free society.

I wish for all your faculty, administrators, and students a continuing sense of grand adventure in the fulfillment of your noble purpose of service to this community, this province, this nation, and, indeed, to all mankind.

Ganja and Rastafarians

By GEORGE MacFARLANE
from Kingston, Jamaica

IN a continuation of its "get tough" policy on crime, the Jamaican government has introduced new, stiffer penalties for offences involving marijuana—or ganja, as it is known here.

The ganja bill comes hard on the heels of legislation that sharply boosted minimum and maximum sentences for armed robbery and sex crimes. It sets a minimum of five years and a maximum of seven for growing or selling ganja; and 18 months to three years for possession.

This is further evidence of the determination of Sir Alexander Bustamante's government to deter the criminal element on this Caribbean island and to halt a crime wave that was beginning to assume alarming proportions.

While the use of ganja is widespread among Jamaica's poorest class, the heavier penalties will have special significance for the Rastafarians, an ugly "back-to-Africa" sect whose members believe that ganja was Biblically ordained for man's enjoyment.

Rightly or wrongly, ganja has been blamed for the almost constant irritating anti-social pose and sporadic criminal behavior of the 30,000 or so sect members, though in truth, the Rastafarians are more of a nuisance than a threat most of the time. Specifically, the blood bath of last spring when two police officers and two civilians were hacked to death near the north shore resort community of Montego Bay, has been attributed to ganja-smoking by the participating Rastafarians. Two sect members also died in the clash and three others were subsequently convicted of murder and executed.

Nightmarish Look

Rastafarians are found only in Jamaica and their appearance is nightmarish. Usually barefoot and ragged, they let their hair and beards grow untended except for filthy braids that quickly identify them. They refer to each other as "Brother" and "Peace and Love" is their greeting. Some carry a small staff and will murmur "Justice" to passers-by, raising a forefinger as a further trademark.

The Rastas, as they are called colloquially, regard Haile Selassie as their supreme leader, an honor he has accepted with a restrained show of gratitude. They carry his picture with them and have built up a cult of mysticism mixed with a touch of racism. They regard themselves as the reincarnation of the Israelites of Solomon's time.

While Ethiopia and other African nations have wined and dined Rasta envoys, the sect's hoped-for "exodus to Africa" has failed to materialize.

The Rastas reject most Jamaican laws, but the principal and almost constant conflict with authority has been over the use of ganja. For many years they have had the island's topography on their side and ganja has been grown with impunity in barely accessible valleys and on steep slopes deep in the lush mountainous interior. But the police force recently acquired a helicopter which is being used with ever-increasing effectiveness to ferret out the well-camouflaged ganja gardens.

Jamaica's Prime Minister Sir Alexander Bustamante has often expressed embarrassment over the bad name the Rastafarians give Jamaica and he has vowed to stamp out ganja which he considers a prime source of the sort of bravado that could turn idle threats into bloody deeds.

Friend on the Bus

This is the time when we pause to think of the past year and the many incidents and associations, happy and otherwise which, added together, make the year a memorable one. This is the time when we think with warmth of old friends, and so may I use your column to say Happy Christmas and pay tribute to our wonderful B.C. Hydro bus drivers, for indeed our bus driver is truly our friend in Victoria?

To a newcomer to this city, the high calibre of the bus drivers is one of their first impressions and one soon realizes their kindly interest in their passengers, their polite manner and concern for the visitor is not just the odd instance of an individual driver. The average is so very high among the Victoria drivers as to cause one to make comparisons with other cities where to ride a bus is a dull, impersonal and often irritating experience. Similar comments have come to me from many many people who have come from other parts of Canada, the States or Britain. Our bus drivers are indeed ambassadors of peace and goodwill.

They must have a genuine interest in their job as this is reflected in the atmosphere of courteous, kindly service which they create in treating their passengers as individuals, as friends, and not sheep. View Royal.

As Our Readers See It

Who's The 'Renegade'?

So the excerpts from Peter Newman's book are ended. What a traitor to his stated party leader, calling him a "renegade." The last of the series shows how the P.M. stayed by the people he knew but was not wanted by the moneyed interests, and the so-called Establishment.

To most of us the cabinet split was about "bombs" in Canada and her forces. No doubt the Avro Arrow shutdown lost many Ontario votes, but Gen. Vokes stated the Liberals had meant to do the same after the election, and are doing similar things now.

What a case Mr. Newman would have made a hundred years ago, against Abe Lincoln.

Peace on Earth?

More people in the whole world are longing for peace these days than ever before. But there are also more destructive weapons piled up all over the world than ever before. And not unless the longing of these people becomes articulate, a mighty cry, a hurricane to sweep away the thoughts of defence all over the world; not unless these horrible, devilish weapons of mass destruction will be dumped into the depths of the ocean, will there really be peace. May we see that day soon.

Common Sense

I want to congratulate Mr. Ward Bishop for his good, common-sense letter in The Victoria Daily Times of December 10, regarding our own National Day. It is a pity that so many of our boys and men have fought and died and died to help Britain in time of wars, both serious ones, then surely to God, we have a right to our very own distinctive flag.

To my mind the time for this is long overdue and it's time true Canadians and British Columbians wakened up to that fact.

May I, through the medium of your paper, express my thanks to those who supported me in the recent Victoria City elections. For a first try it was most encouraging.

New Meaning?

This Ottawa author Newman, educated in Toronto, seems to have a new meaning for the word "renegade," unless perhaps he uses a U.S.A. dictionary.

In this country the word is seldom used and suggests unusual cunning to coax good sales of the "Diefenbaker" book.

It is possible that this word "renegade" as applied to a one-time Prime Minister of Canada may be deemed disreputable and unpatriotic. But of course if Uncle Sam is interested in our elections unusual things can happen.

Aged John Could See Its Meaning

The apostle John lived what he wrote and was a witness to the great ministry of Jesus. Last survivor of the 12 disciples, John achieved full understanding of the phenomenon of God's love of man that is the great hope of Christmas. Here, in the last of a series of four articles, is his story.

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP RELIGION WRITER

The withered old patriarch sat in a stone seat in the courtyard of the academy at Ephesus. He was past 90 years of age, the skin shrivelled on his bones and his beard a great cascade of white down his chest. Yet, as he turned this way and that toward the students gathered at his feet, his eyes flashed piercingly and his voice crackled with an iron wisdom. Only John, among the 12 apostles, survived. He had come to the winter of his life, yet spring still sparkled in him. And his memory swam with keen, rousing images. They had sharpened with the years.

Looking backward, the old firebrand "pillar" of the church could see it all more clearly and comprehensively now. The many separate threads formed a pattern, a vivid mosaic, and he could read its meaning and import. He said:

"In the beginning was the word, and the word was with God, and the word was God. He was in the beginning with God; all things were made through Him, and without Him was not anything made that was made."

Awesome Account

So begins the most majestic, awesome and penetrating account of the first Christmas.

It delves into the taproots and fountainhead of Christ, who is called the expressed "word," or radiating force of the Almighty. The description asserts a strange, seldom noted quality about Him, that He co-existed with God always, from before the physical universe, and that He Himself was the outstretch. Unlike other presentations of the divine arm that created and vitalized all nature.

its bare incidents to its stupendous, animating basis and its sweeping significance. True, it had unfolded among men, yet it had arisen from beyond the far ramparts of the world.

John omits any reference to Jesus' birth, earthly parentage or infancy. These things had become common knowledge. Instead, out of the distillation of time, reflection and gradually clarifying insights into an overwhelming experience, John had reached an understanding of it, and sought to put it in full perspective.

Stunning Days

Neither he nor the other apostles had grasped the implications at the time of Christ's physical companionship. He had often bewildered them. They had been repeatedly baffled, incredulous, frightened and bumblingly foolish.

The hot-blooded young John had once urged Jesus to call down fire on an unfriendly village. Again, John had vied for first place in the coming "kingdom." On each occasion, he had been rebuked. He was dubbed a "son of thunder." Yet he was among Jesus' three most beloved confidantes.

Now, nearly 70 years later, presumably in the last decade before 100 AD, the mellowed, old nonagenarian had assimilated and slowly brought into sharp, graphic outline just what had happened in those stunning days.

Since then, he had undergone severe tests, and had abundant time to meditate, including a lonely period of exile on the barren island of Patmos, to which he had been banished by Roman authorities and where he had produced his mystical Book of Revelation, or the Apocalypse.

The ecclesia — those called into faith — remained under harsh strictures, suffering frequent violence. They were widely reviled as "atheists" because they refused to do homage at state altars. The brutal Domitian reigned as Roman emperor, unleashing sporadic persecutions.

Howbeit, Christianity spread invincibly and numerous, strong communities persisted in Ephesus, capital of Asia province, with its bustling, raucous harbor, its steaming baths, its ornate temple to the mother goddess Diana, a site of wild brawl.

ing since no arrest could be made within a bowshot of it.

The church grew in that environment, and apparently even developed a teaching cadre centered around the frail, old apostle John. Ancient references to the "John" there are sometimes ambiguous, and scholars at one time tended to date his gospel later, by other authorship, but more modern findings support the early tradition.

In his prologue, whether written by himself or dictated to a penman, John sums up the entire case of the divine thrust to mankind, and puts it in total context. The rest of the book is merely a recital of specific evidence to support the opening conclusion.

John uses lean, simple words and short sentences, almost like an ancient Hemingway, yet they are charged with lofty and powerful content. He offers no chronological account, but rather an array of selected, significant episodes, which stood out in his memory. He deals with only 20 days of Jesus' 1,000-day ministry. Yet the scenes abound with minute, close-up detail.

But what was the meaning of it all? Who was Christ? Where did He come from? And why? John starts out with a considered assessment. Always, he says, the light has shined "in the darkness, and the darkness has not overcome it."

But because of men's loss of contact with it and loss of their elemental bearings, "the true light that lightens every man was coming into the world." Even before that, "He was in the world, and the world was made through Him, yet the world knew Him not."

Word Became Flesh

Then came the climax, the fuller light, the most eloquent utterance of God:

"The word became flesh and dwelt among us, full of grace and truth."

That was, and is, the phenomenon of Christmas. That is the sublime and amazing reach of God for man.

It was, as John finally understood, love incarnate, love bursting forth in physical creaturehood, in behalf of all humanity.

John, out of his long brooding, had achieved a crisp grasp of the whole transaction. He offered no theological speculation about it, but only the inescapable, full-blown reaction of a person to a person.

The Nub of It All

John did not try to enumerate every part of the story. If everything Jesus did were "to be written, I suppose that the world itself could not contain the books that would be written," John's account concludes. But he records the important thing, the nub of it all. And he knew it was so. "This is the disciple who is bearing witness to these things." He had lived what he wrote.

It is said that as he neared his death, the feeble old "son of thunder" was carried to meetings of worship in Ephesus on a pallet, and he would murmur to all who came near: "Little children, love one another."

That, in short, was the heart of the matter: Love. Mankind wrought in love, needed it, lost it, and received it again. That, John had come to know, was the meaning of what had happened to him. That was the theme of the most exciting, tremendous story ever told. The loneliness had ended. The light breaks through. It is Christmas.

Commons Whistles Bills Through

By STEWART MacLEOD

OTTAWA (CP) — Parliament, like a spirited football club, proves its mettle when racing against the clock.

The race has been on all week, aiming at prorogation this weekend.

Wednesday night, in a five-minute overtime spurt, the House whistled through three bills of transportation matters.

Thursday night, again in overtime, the House recovered from a slow start on the first item of mines department estimates, and polished off all the others in 70 seconds.

This, coupled with approval earlier in the day of estimates of the agriculture, fisheries, revenue and veteran's affairs departments, now leaves eight of the 21 departmental estimates still to be completed. The House was to go back to business on extra hours today to see what can be accomplished towards a cleanup.

SHORTENED LUNCH BREAK

The House will take only a 60-minute lunch break today—usually it's 90 minutes—and members agreed that if prospects look good for a night prorogation, the supper hour may be cancelled.

As item after item of the estimates were stamped with Commons approval Thursday, these things happened:

AGRICULTURE

Agriculture Minister Hays promised to give the Commons a complete report on the sheep disease scrapie. But he said he didn't think it was too serious a problem.

There was a series of complaints that the West gets more help from the agriculture department than the East does.

Mr. Hays said eastern agriculture will get more benefits under the Agriculture Rehabilitation and Development Act.

FISHERIES

Fisheries Minister Robichaud met sharp disagreement from the NDP benches when he said it wasn't the opportune moment to press for Russia's participation in the North Pacific fisheries convention.

Frank Howard (NDP — Skeena) said it was time Canada tackled the Russians on the question of Pacific fish conservation. It was a question of "immense concern."

Mr. Robichaud said Russia still takes the position that fish caught on the high seas belong to no one. There was little chance of getting immediate co-operation from the Russians on the conservation question.

REVENUE

Income tax inspectors who crop down claims for charitable donations took a hammering from some Quebec members.

Gilles Giguere (Creditiste-Lapointe) said arrogant inspectors should be stopped from inquiring into the financial records of churches. Guy Marcoux (SC—Quebec Montmorency) said that when receipts are attached to a tax form, and the amounts are within the prescribed limits, they should be accepted. Either that, or stop accepting receipts altogether, he said.

Arnold Peters (NDP — Timiskaming) said there were many cases where taxpayers get church receipts for money they haven't actually given.

Marcel Lambert (PC — Edmonton West) said the problem could be solved if churches used the envelope system of collecting donations.

LABOR

Labor Minister MacEachen announced a two-month extension to the program under which the government shares payment of wages of unemployed persons over 45 who are hired for work. It now will extend to next March 31.

He also announced that the workers will no longer have to exhaust their unemployment insurance benefits before qualifying.

Pensions Up $10 Month, Mailed Today

VANCOUVER (CP) — Premier Bennett announced Thursday that old-age, blind and disabled pensions will be increased $10 a month effective Dec. 1, 1963.

The premier said the increase would be for old-age pensioners between the ages of 65 and 69 and would, with the supplementary $24-a-month maximum addition in cases of need, bring British Columbia's old age pension to $99 a month, highest in Canada.

He said the pension was being increased immediately and that cheques were going out today despite the fact that the federal government, which shares in the increase, has not yet agreed to sign an agreement with the province.

The increase raises the basic old-age pension for persons aged 65 to 69 to $75 from $65. It also covers persons on blind allowances and those receiving disabled allowances.

Guardsmen Charged For Blasts

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP)—Four Alabama national guardsmen have been charged with touching off minor explosions near the University of Alabama while on federal duty to uphold court-ordered desegregation of the school.

Authorities say more arrests are expected.

Three blasts occurred last month—two Nov. 16 and one Nov. 19. All were near a dormitory housing Negro student Vivian Malone, who was admitted under federal court orders along with James A. Hood last June. Hood later withdrew.

The men arrested Thursday were with the last units still on duty after President Kennedy federalized the entire Alabama guard during a showdown with Governor George Wallace.

All troops were demobilized Nov. 20, the day after the last explosion. No one was hurt in any of the explosions.

ARREST LIEUTENANT

The men were rounded up during the late afternoon and night. The first man arrested was 2nd Lieut. James T. Perkins, 27, of Holt, Ala., a suburb of Tuscaloosa. He later posted $5,000 bond.

Police identified two of the others as Sgt. Norman R. Daniel of Fairfield, Ala., a suburb of Birmingham, and Cpl. James T. Maxwell, 27, of Tuscaloosa. Maxwell also posted bond.

The name of the fourth man was not available immediately.

Perkins and Maxwell were charged with the first Nov. 16 detonation. The warrant against them said they set off dynamite or some other explosive in or near the home of Rev. J. Edgar Hoover, who lives close to Mary Burke Hall, where Miss Malone lives.

Daniel is charged with the Nov. 19 blast, which occurred about three blocks from the dormitory.

Authorities declined to speculate about the motive for the bombings.

ALL ANKLE SUFFERERS WILL HAIL THIS DEAL

MOUNT VERNON, Ohio (AP)—The ankle injury, long a nightmare for both athletes and coaches, may soon be a thing of the past.

Ohio coaches are praising a new device that may reduce the number of ankle injuries or perhaps eliminate them altogether. The device, invented by Raymond Yost, is a pneumatic ankle brace, encasing the ankle in a cushion of air, making it almost impossible to inflict a sprain.

Yost, a shoe store operator, says he first came up with the idea for a brace nine years ago when his son, Barth, developed weak ankles playing football.

SPORTS DIARY

By SHIRLEY POVICH
(The Washington Post)

WASHINGTON—It is well to remember that, under the law, organized baseball and professional football are not quite equal. That is the concern again of the distinguished senators from Michigan and Illinois, Mr. Philip Hart and Mr. Everett Dirksen. This week they are co-sponsors of a Senate bill that seeks more civil rights for pro football.

What is bugging the football people and their supporting senators is the second-class citizenship of their game, which does not have the protection of the Supreme Court of the United States in the same degree that does baseball. Pro football has not been given immunity from the anti-trust laws.

This is what pro football's friends in the Senate are seeking, parity with baseball. An act of Congress is needed because the Supreme Court, at the last asking in 1957, ruled that pro football could not be similarly favored under the anti-trust laws. At the same time, the high court invited Congress to an exemption for football.

This is what is in the works. Mostly it is an effort to get status for pro football, which actually has been unhampered by the fact that it may be less loved by the high court. The restrictions on football have not quite left the game suffocated. Even now there are club owners who proclaim that pro football has usurped baseball's place as the national sport.

Football has gotten favors from Congress before. It owes its big, profitable television packaging agreement to special exemption by Congress in 1961 from the monopoly laws which previously had scowled on such monopolistic arrangements. The congressional go-ahead enabled the National Football League to wrap up a $9.3 million, two-year deal with a network for its TV rights.

Baseball Is Content With Status

Baseball has been content with its most-favored sport status in the high court and hasn't deigned to ask for anything like this in peddling in its TV-radio rights. It might not even be workable in baseball, with the successful clubs like the Yankees refusing to share its TV-radio revenue with the have-not teams, but pro football has paved the way for such action.

Pro football is yet in need of congressional help for another reason. Unlike baseball, it does not have the Supreme Court blessing for the same kind of player-contract. Consistently since 1922, the high court has upheld baseball's reserve clause which technically binds a team for life a player who signs originally with that club.

Football couldn't get the same kind of approval of its reserve clause the last time it tried, in 1957. This made the pro football people unhappy and they resorted to their limited option contract, which binds a player to their teams for only two years. Unlike a major league baseball player, a pro football player can ask his release to join another club. That has been done.

Pro football's new move in Congress would bring the same protection to its player contracts as is now enjoyed by organized baseball, basketball and hockey, as well as football, and endorses practices "which relate to the equalization of competitive playing strengths, and the employment, selection or eligibility of players." Important there is the endorsement of pro football's draft system.

College Stars Unable to Bargain

There has been some question as to the legality of pro football's drafting of college players and abrogating property rights to themselves out of a common pool of college graduates. This is done without so much as a by-your-leave request of the collegians who find themselves assigned to teams with which they must play or face a kind of boycott in that league.

The bill in Congress would validate this right of the pro football teams which sometimes has been called presumptuous and does smack of being so. Seemingly it deprives the college player of his individual bargaining rights to shop his skills on the whole market. He finds himself labelled, with a kind of lip tattoo, as "club property."

Baseball has never regarded this as a right of its ball teams and gives young players at least an original option of joining the team of his choice. There is opening bidding for him and the bonus boys have profited handsomely from it at a cost of millions to the baseball teams. The football device could have appeal for baseball, if legitimized by Congress. The sacrifice of giving up its most-favored position in the courts would be small compared to the money to be saved. The bill could well attract baseball's support.

Blades Nip Invaders; Tighten League Race

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Western Hockey League race tightened a little more Thursday night as Los Angeles Blades edged league-leading Denver Invaders 3-2.

The victory pushed the Blades into a second-place tie with Seattle Totems, both nine points behind the Invaders. Only five points separate the second- and last-place clubs.

In the only league game Thursday, Blades snapped a four-game losing streak as they nipped Denver before 8,842 fans at the Los Angeles Sports Arena.

The teams were tied 1-1 in the first period and Blades edged ahead 2-1 in the second.

Veteran Bob Solinger, defenceman Red Bowness and Stan Maxwell scored for Los Angeles. The Denver replies came from defenceman Bill Shevitz and winger John Sleaver.

Los Angeles goalie Jim McLeod stopped 29 shots, while Al Millar turned aside 26 in the Denver net.

BOY STRUCK BY STICK FACES LOSS OF EYE

BROCKVILLE, Ont. (CP)—Doctors say they may be unable to save the sight in one eye of a 15-year-old boy who was slashed across the face with a hockey stick during a fracas at the Brockville Arena Tuesday night.

Malcolm Severson's condition was satisfactory Thursday. He was a spectator at an Ottawa-Hull and District Junior hockey match when injured.

Jean Louis Lacroix, 40, coach of Hull, Que. Hawks, said the boy's facial wounds required 20 stitches to close and doctors said the iris of his left eye was cut and there was bleeding behind the eyeball.

ANOTHER CRISIS IN BRITAIN

Shorts at 27 Above! Not Ruddy Likely!

LONDON (AP)—Nineteen star players of an English soccer club stayed out on strike today for the right to wear long pants.

It was all part of the cold war raging between West Bromwich Albion's top professionals and their manager, former England inside forward Jimmy Hagan.

The revolt flared Thursday as the team set out for training. The thermometer showed 27 degrees and that, said the players, was too cold for shorts.

Hagan insisted: Shorts it must be. The 19 players, including 10 of the first eleven, broke camp and went home.

Don Howe, club captain and spokesman for the rebels, told reporters:

"We are not giving way. We shall keep refusing to train."

"If a solution is not found quickly, we shall go and train by ourselves in a local park."

Hagan said he will report the revolt to a meeting of the club's board Monday. Before then the players will have to strip. Saturday, they meet Bolton in the English League First Division and long pants are barred in league games.

Trouble has been brewing in the Albion camp for weeks. Last week, 10 first-team men demanded transfers, saying Hagan was too strict a disciplinarian and old-fashioned in his methods.

Some even charged that Hagan, one of the most elegant players who ever wore an English shirt, is not interested in scientific soccer and only wants the rough-and-tumble stuff. Hagan wouldn't comment on that one.

The transfer demands were withdrawn after the club agreed to set up channels for negotiating grievances.

"Now," said Howe sadly, "all the talk about better understanding has come to nothing.

"The manager's attitude was that we had all been naughty lads. This is the very attitude we've been fighting against."

Most other clubs apparently leave it to the players whether they train in short pants or long. West Brom's neighbors at Aston Villa and Birmingham all wore long pants in Thursday's session—and some wore two pairs.

NICE WORK YO' ALL

It may be a nutty idea, but two members of South team, which will meet North All-Stars in bowl game Saturday at Miami, apparently enjoy showing Marite Ozers, Miss U.S.A., some points about football. Using coconut for demonstration are Gene Feher (52) and Bob Burton (41), both from University of Maryland. Feher is a centre, Burton a halfback. (AP Wirephoto.)

Czechs Won't Play His Way, So Leo Boils Over

EDMONTON (CP)—Leo Leclerc, fiery manager of Edmonton Oil Kings, finds himself in the midst of controversy today after suggesting Czechoslovakia's national hockey team "lacks the courage" to play his club under Canadian rules.

Both Art Potter of Edmonton, Canadian Amateur Hockey Association president, and Jimmy Brown of Camrose, Alberta Amateur Hockey Association president, sided with the Czechs.

The tempest revolving around the two sets of rules began Thursday when the Czechs declined an invitation from Leclerc to play half an exhibition game here Dec. 23 against the Oil Kings under Canadian rules.

Czech officials said they regretted that they could not comply "because all international matches must be played under IJHF (International Ice Hockey Federation) rules and regulations."

Leclerc replied that this was

Gilles Tremblay Owns Sharpest Shot in NHL

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Who's the most accurate shooter in the National Hockey League? You might guess Chicago's Stan Mikita, who leads the league with 19 goals, or Bobby Hull, Frank Mahovlich or Gordie Howe.

But the best shot in the NHL belongs to left-winger Gilles Tremblay of Montreal Canadiens, according to statistics compiled during the first one-third of the season.

Tremblay, who missed seven of his team's first 24 games, had 38 shots on net and scored eight for a 21.1 accuracy average. Next best was Chicago's Red Hay, 12 goals on 59 shots for a 20.3 average and Ken Wharram, 13 goals for 65 shots and 20 per cent.

Hull, who had the most shots on net (140), Mikita, Mahovlich and Howe, surprisingly, are well down the list. Mikita had an 11.9 mark, Hull was 12.1, Mahovlich 11.4 and Howe 6.5. Toronto's top shooter was

FOR THE PROMOTER

Liberty Can Be Costly

NEW YORK (AP)—North Carolina State and Mississippi State, two of the best United States college football teams, meet in the 102,000-seat Philadelphia Stadium Saturday in the fifth and perhaps last Liberty Bowl.

Bowl promoter Bud Dudley predicts a crowd of only 30,000, which entails a personal financial licking of about $20,000. The game is scheduled for network television coverage over NBC.

Other Saturday bowl games include the Gator Bowl at Gainesville, Fla., the Shrine game and Tangerine Bowl are scheduled the following Saturday, Dec. 28; the Sun Bowl at El Paso, Tex., Dec. 31, and the Cotton, Orange, Sugar and Rose Bowls, New Year's Day.

Dudley has taken a financial licking on four of the five Liberty Bowl games and it's doubtful that he'll try again.

In addition to the difficulties he has had trying to sell two southern teams—even though they're among the best—to Philadelphia, he has had the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People in opposition. They've threatened to picket the game.

And there's the weather. The U.S. Weather Bureau forecasts temperatures in the 20s at game time. Philadelphia Stadium is ringed with snow.

Rookie Has Abel Happy

By The Canadian Press

The two-goalie plan seems to be working out well for Sid Abel's Detroit Red Wings. Abel decided some time ago the rigors of a National Hockey League season are simply too much for one goaltender.

So he's resting Terry Sawchuk and using Roger Crozier—and in front of the 21-year-old youngster the Red Wings have gone five games without a setback.

In the league's only game Thursday night, Crozier turned in a 17-stop performance for his first shutout in the big time as the Red Wings dumped Boston 3-0 in Detroit, beating off a challenge by the Bruins for fourth place in the standings.

A crowd of 8,248, lowest NHL attendance of the season, watched as a 50-foot shot by Pit Martin with less than five minutes remaining in the second period whizzed past Eddie Johnston and gave the Red Wings their first goal.

ULLMAN BACK IN FORM

Alex Delvecchio added the second goal in the final minute of the period with a 10-footer and Norm Ullman rounded it out in the final period.

Ullman was making his second appearance after missing nine games with an ankle injury.

The win gave Detroit 25 points and a four-point edge over the Bruins. It was Detroit's second win with Crozier in the nets. The other three games were ties.

One of Crozier's stops came on a breakaway by Murray Oliver in the opening period. In the final 20 minutes, he had just one shot to handle, the Red Wings tightening up defensively to preserve his shutout.

FORMIDABLE TASK faces world welterweight champion Emilie Griffith tonight. He meets hardnosed middleweight contender Rubin "Hurricane" Carter in 10-round bout at Pittsburgh who predicts he'll win by knockout.

Miss Gould, encased in a plaster cast from her neck to her toes, was flown out on a U.S. Air Force plane.

The 25-year-old ex-school teacher from Rydal, Pa., said she will come back to Europe next month to cheer her teammates at the Olympics in Austria.

CURLERS' CORNER

By Ernie Fedoruk

Curling's redefined slide rule is, in the main, being observed by most. A few, however, still consistently violate the ruling and this causes some rivals moments of embarrassment.

The rule is simple enough. The curler must come to a complete stop before ANY PART OF THE BODY reaches the nearest hog line.

On a club draw the other night, one youngster consistently violated the rule.

Why don't you call him on it? someone asked the rival third, whose duty it is to do these things.

"I know he's breaking the rule, but it's only a club game," the vice-skip replied. "Besides, I don't want to cause any ill-feeling."

It is a typical reply. Altogether too many curlers are more interested in winning popularity contests than in what is right and wrong.

If the rule is not going to be enforced, why bother to write it?

Not to be overlooked is this point: By calling the rule, curlers will be doing the offender a great service. Is it not better to enforce the infraction in "meaningless" league games than it would be to have someone call it in an important playoff?

Courtenay's Frank Coates is the first skip to win a berth in the Island zone playdowns. Backed by Dr. Grant MacDonald, Ken Altken and Ole Carlson, Coates emerged as the Comox Valley representative by defeating Dave Paterson 11-5.

So that will be the host rink when the Island finals are run off at the Comox club Jan. 19 and 20.

This, of course, is the weekend that playdowns get underway at Victoria Club and Allan's Rink in Saanich. Four rinks are looking forward to carrying the Allan banner, while 11 are entered in the VCC's double-draw, double-knockout competition.

Nanaimo has eight rinks ready to move into the hack Jan. 3, and Alberni, with nine foursomes cued up, starts Dec. 28.

Playdowns already are underway at Duncan and Esquimalt. Glen Harper, defending provincial titleholder, seems well on his way to repeating as Duncan's representative. Harper's crew, going with only three men while Gary Merrett is recovering from an attack of hepatitis, has reached the finals in both events of Duncan's double-draw knockout competition.

Harper will be "in" if he beats Ike Barber and Ron Minette next week.

The Esquimalt berth is still a tossup. Lyle Gordon is unbeaten after two starts, while the veteran Jack Moir and Al Thompson both sport 3-1 records in the eight-rink round-robin.

LOOSE STRAWS: With one game to go, perennial challenger Flora Martin has assured herself of no worse than a tie in playoffs to determine Victoria evening ladies' representatives. . . . The Martin rink is unbeaten in four games, while runner-up Mary Beatty has a 3-1 record. . . . The Afternoon League's representative has already been determined.

Doris Fraser, backed by Edna Manchester, Pat Frankland and Elsie Hamilton, defeated Rene Robbins and Edith Leach in a three-way playoff. . . . There's room for only three more rinks wishing to play in the annual Duncan men's bonspiel Jan. 9-12. . . . But there is more room for rinks wishing to campaign in any of the three Christmas "spels in Victoria.

Flyers Plan to Make Navy Work for Title

Navy opens the defence of its Pacific Command tri-services hockey championship against Comox RCAF at the Sports Centre tonight and the sailors could be in for a rough evening.

Reports from Comox indicate that the alman have acquired several players in recent postings and are planning to give the perennial champs a run for the title.

Also in the tourney is the Queen's Own Rifles army club, recently arrived from Germany.

Rangers Send Rookies Back

NEW YORK (AP) — New York Rangers of the National Hockey League dispatched three youngsters to their Baltimore farm team in the American Hockey League Thursday.

Leaving New York are goaltender Gilles Villemure, Trois-Rivieres, Que., and forwards Gordon Labossiere, St. Boniface, Man., and Dave Richardson, also of St. Boniface. Villemure played three games in place of Jacques Plante, losing two and tying one. Labossiere and Richardson were both scoreless.

Tonight's game, starting at 8, replaces the usual Friday night clash in the Esquimalt and District League, which is taking a break until Jan. 3.

MAXWELL ON TOP

Navy's Ken Maxwell is again setting the scoring pace in the Esquimalt League with 14 points from seven goals and seven assists.

Following Maxwell are three members of the league-leading Esquimalt Pontiacs. Jim Bronson, the leading goal scorer with eight tallies, and Doug Couch are tied at 12 points with Sandy George another point behind.

Doug Bamforth of Vikings leads in assists with nine. Here are the scoring leaders:

Gross National Product Continues to Show Gain

OTTAWA (CP)—The growth rate of Canada's economy continued in the third quarter of 1963, with the gross national product rising 1.3 per cent to an annual rate of $43,000,000,000, the bureau of statistics estimated today.

About one-third of the gain from the second-quarter level of $42,436,000,000 was accounted for by higher prices. The figure for gross national product—total value of good and services produced—is adjusted to discount seasonal fluctuations.

The increase of 1.3 per cent was a continuation of similar sized gains which have been apparent since early in 1962. It was the tenth consecutive quarterly increase in the current expansion of the production of goods and services.

Since the last business recession ended in early 1961, the gross national product has advanced 19 per cent, about three-fourths of which represents a gain in real terms. In the third quarter prices rose by about .5 per cent.

The growth rate of the economy increased .8 per cent in the first quarter of 1963 and by 1.2 per cent in the second quarter.

Finance Minister Gordon, in his June 13 budget, forecast a five-per-cent rise in national output this year, with about one-third of the gain resulting from higher prices. In a recent speech Privy Council President Maurice Lamontagne revised the forecast to six per cent.

The bureau said the gross national product during the first nine months of 1963 was running six per cent above the same period a year ago and had advanced 4.25 per cent from the end of 1962.

CONSUMER SPENDING UP

Main reasons for the higher level in the nine months, compared with a year previous, has been consumer spending, which accounted for one-half of the rise.

However, other sectors of demand, although quantitatively less important than consumers, registered relatively greater gains. Exports of merchandise were particularly strong and investment in machinery and equipment and government expenditures on goods and services were all higher by six per cent or more.

The latest quarterly gain stemmed mainly from increased spending on consumer goods and services and a moderate accumulation of business inventories.

Spending by persons increased by more than $550,000,000 to an annual rate of $27,400,000,000, with about two-thirds of the advance attributable to non-durable goods. The quarter's buildup of non-farm inventories of $300,000,000 was a renewed element of strength, after nine months during which the rate of inventory accumulation slowed down and finally turned to be a modest liquidation.

SCHOOLBOY BOMB HOAXERS EXPELLED

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—Two boys were expelled by the New Westminster school board Wednesday for their part in a bomb hoax plot at the Vincent Massey secondary school last November.

One of the boys made a telephone call that resulted in 1,350 students being evacuated while police and firemen searched the school. The other encouraged and paid for the call.

Two other boys who were at the phone when the call was made were dismissed until school resumes after the holidays Jan. 6 and will face severe reprimand from the school board.

The two ringleaders and the two who went to the booth with them appeared in juvenile court earlier this month and were placed on probation for a year.

Burma Rebels Shoot, Hack Seven Priests

RANGOON, Burma (AP)—Seven members of a touring party of 41 priests and religious helpers were shot and hacked to death by Karen rebels who attacked their caravan near Moulmein, reports from the scene said today.

Government troops killed 10 of the rebels, but lost five themselves.

The religious party had been touring villages southeast of Moulmein. The rebels caught their caravan at one of the villages and showed no mercy. One moulvi (priest) who begged for mercy was hacked down. The rebels tore up and burned copies of the Koran, the Mohammedan scriptures, and stole everything of value.

The rebels are believed to belong to the National Democratic United Front which is aligned with the Communist underground.

DEAN WHITLOW:

'The Word Made Flesh And Dwelt Among Us'

The birth of Jesus Christ was God's way of translating his word into flesh, Dean Brian Whitlow told 300 Rotarians and their wives Thursday.

A Rotarian himself, Dean Whitlow was delivering a Christmas message to Victoria Rotary Club.

"We use words as tools so we can say what we want to say," he said.

'THE WORD'
"The Child whose birthday we will be celebrating in six days is often called 'the word.'"
Quoting from St. John, he said "The word was made flesh and dwelt among us."
He compared this to a book on theology written in German. "If the book was translated into English, I'd be able to read and understand what the author meant.

"This is what St. John meant when he said Christ was 'the word.'"

"In the person of Jesus Christ, the world has seen God. Things that pleased Him were things that pleased God."

"He was God translated into human things—things that we can understand."

... MARITIME BLIZZARD

 cept in the Avalon Peninsula in the east. Gusts of wind hit 100 miles an hour in western Newfoundland. Snow, still falling, piled in six foot drifts.

The winds ripped a roof off a house at Quidi Vidi near St. John's, leaving a family of 14 homeless.

Prince Edward Island highway traffic was still stalled today except in urban areas. The province received 10 inches of snow that piled into tremendous drifts before wind gusts of 100 miles an hour.

The eastern part of P.E.I. was without power. There was little hope it could be restored quickly because of blocked roads. Telephone circuits were disrupted in many areas.

Hundreds of workers spent the night where they could—in offices, garages, waterfront sheds. Hotel rooms were almost all taken.

Some 1,200 people remained overnight at one Halifax department store. They included employees and out-of-town shoppers.

New Brunswick and Cape Breton Island reported the highest tides in more than 10 years.

Trains were operating but ran behind schedule, as much because of the Christmas rush as the storm, a CNR spokesman said.

GIRL IS BORN

And Mrs. Juanita Clahane, 23, of suburban Bedford gave birth Thursday night to a baby girl in the house of a Halifax family she didn't know. The ambulance bringing her to hospital became stuck and she was taken to the nearest home.

Halifax police used a four-wheel-drive emergency vehicle to take five other pregnant women to hospital.

PGE Line Cleared After Derailment

VANCOUVER (CP)—Pacific Great Eastern Railway officials today were attempting to determine the cause of a derailment of a freight train Thursday.

Officials said there were no injuries when three diesel locomotives and six cars of the southbound freight jumped the tracks near Porteau, four miles south of Britannia, 30 miles north of Vancouver.

The track was cleared overnight.

One Missing In Tug Fire

VANCOUVER (CP)—A man was rescued early today from the bow of his burning tug in nearby Howe Sound.

A second man, Edward Rhodes, was missing and was the object of a search by small boats.

Dave McDonald, about 30, of Port Coquitlam was rescued by a water taxi as he clung to the bow of the 40-foot tug Our Best, of which he was skipper.

"The whole boat except for the bow was burning," said Frank Wright who was on the taxi. "McDonald was clinging to the bow, he was half over the side as if he was shielding himself from the heat."

McDonald was treated for burns to the face and sent home.

We knew a couple once, and a dreary pair they were, who never sent Christmas cards.

Not only that, but from October on, they let it be known that they considered card-giving and receiving one of the reasons why Christmas has degenerated into a pagan festival.

We dropped in on them one Christmas week, and even though they had a fire in the fireplace and a tree in the corner, their living room seemed chilly.

No cards.

Meekly, we listened to our host hold forth on the crass commercialism of modern Christmas while we nibbled our portion of fruitcake. But as soon as we could without being downright rude, we took off from there for a house where people liked Christmas cards, and the air was warmer.

At our place, the cards have now overflowed the mantel and are seeping out to the tables. That's just dandy! I hope the flow continues! As far as we're concerned, those gay rectangles with their pointillist and holly, their messages simple or florid, are as much a part of the season as cranberry sauce and "Come All Ye Faithfuls."

The wonderful thing about Christmas cards is that they lead us back to our friends as if a tinsel string were attached to each.

The very smart Manhattan production is from a woman editor who visited us. She was deathly scared of cougars, a circumstance that delighted us in one who risked her neck daily among Manhattan's swarming cabs.

"No cougar within miles of here," we assured her. "You can live on this island all your life and not see a wild cougar."

Even so, she buttoned her bedroom window tight . . . and a year or two later, we mailed her a clipping about the panther that got himself shot on Government Street.

Our Ontario cards always run heavy to simplicity and snow. We exchange greetings with a sea captain and his wife, Newfoundlanders both, who never can agree on how to pronounce their native province. Their card wouldn't be complete without a boat.

California tends to flaunt its summer-in-winter. From that state once, and for no reason I could arrive at, we got a card signed by Elvis

Presley. I was a pretty important person that Christmas, let me tell you! Our young conducted daily tours of juveniles past The Card, which was all but worn out when we stowed it away.

Our biggest cards this year are a pair of color photographs that rate an end table to themselves. There's another photograph, a little driftwood study in black and white by a Salt Spring Island friend who handles camera and typewriter with equal skill.

The mobile which we have come to believe inevitable must still be in the mails, and so is the card from the friends we have seen twice in 20 years.

He is a Saskatchewan doctor who likes trout fishing, she an artist. We found her sketching, one rainy day, in a little streamside park up Island.

They got talking. Win told her the alder in the foreground of her sketch was the one we met under as kids. I came back from my fishing, and with the last of the light, the doctor-angler trudged up from the river.

We persuaded the operator of the lodge where we were staying to bend his "guests only" rule and feed the hungry pair. I mended the doctor's broken rod tip, he gave me some brown-trout flies, and we started them back toward Courtenay with the amiable-casual goodbyes you reserve for those you don't expect to hear from again.

That December, we got a Christmas card from the Saskatchewaner, if you can so describe a framed oil painting about two feet square, with a familiar old alder in the foreground.

Last August, we drove north to have lunch with them again. Our next meeting, which we defied the fates by arranging, will be in 1968, when those friends retire to Vancouver Island.

We'll have their greeting any mail now. Theirs and others . . . sentimental, commercial as all get-out, but renewing friendships we'd grieve to lose.

BUT UBC RAISED

Uvic Entry Standard Stays at 50 Per Cent

Admission barriers against high school students were raised today by the University of B.C., but not by the University of Victoria.

A UBC announcement said currently required 50 per cent average in a full set of Grade 12 examinations will be boosted to 60 per cent for all students trying to enter next fall in order to cut down the rapid increase in student population.

But University of Victoria dean of arts and sciences Robert Wallace said the senate voted only this week to keep the present requirements on the basis of a thorough study by a seven-member committee set up three months ago.

"We are not weakening or lowering our standards," said Dean Wallace.

"But we want to give as many people as possible a chance to try themselves in a university situation as long as we can. We may, of course, have to revise our admission requirements someday in the future."

Uvic registration officials had projected this year's 900-freshman total to 1,100 next fall, but the two decisions announced today undoubtedly will boost the increase beyond the 200-mark. However, it is too early to determine if the boost will be of significant proportions.

MOTIVATED

It was pointed out that mainland students with a Grade 12 university entrance average between 50 and 60 per cent who make the journey to Victoria to obtain a college education are more likely to be among those who are strongly motivated.

The Uvic decision was made by the senate when it adopted the report of a standing committee on admission requirements and standards which is to make annual reviews of the situation.

The two main recommendations were:

1. If any change in admission requirements is to be made, high school students should be given at least one year's notice so that the rules are not revised while they are in the midst of Grade 12.
2. No change be made for the academic year beginning in September, 1964.

The UBC announcement said admission requirements were raised in order to spot more of the first-year drop-outs—totaling 50 per cent of the average freshman class.

Auction Fails To Sell Monterey Site

No bids were received at a sheriff's auction in Victoria Courthouse Thursday for property at the northeast corner of Douglas and Hillside, formerly occupied by the Monterey restaurant.

The property was put up for auction at an upset price of $104,000.

"About 12 persons attended the auction but no bids were made," Sheriff Eric Wilkinson said today.

The Monterey restaurant was destroyed by fire in October, 1961. Its owner, Maurice Wincure, was negotiating with several prospects for construction of a large hotel on the site.

FAILED

But negotiations collapsed when it was announced the land would be sold at a sheriff's auction to pay off mortgage company debts.

It is now expected the land will go to the holders of the first mortgage, Centennial Mortgage Corporation, Ltd., Vancouver.

David Youngson, counsel for the corporation, said under the terms of a court order, if the property was not sold by auction, it would go to the first mortgagee.

DELAYED

He said Centennial Mortgage had delayed taking over the property because the second mortgagee, Toronto-Dominion Bank, wanted it auctioned.

Mr. Wincure purchased the restaurant in March, 1961, for $238,000. After it was destroyed by fire, he said the restaurant would be rebuilt if he could find a financial backer.

Damage in Fire Hits $25,000

'Lucky Save' At Black Ball Says Chief

All city firemen on duty Thursday night were called out to fight a blaze that caused an estimated $25,000 damage to the Black Ball Ferry building, 816 Wharf Street.

Firemen using five rigs brought the blaze under control in 20 minutes but were on the scene for another two hours before it was finally extinguished.

They were lucky, said Fire Chief John Abbott.

If they had been five minutes later on the scene the fire would have spread through the entire building, he explained.

IN REST ROOM

As it was, firemen were able to confine the fire to the Canada Customs rest room where it started and to an adjoining stairway that leads to Black Ball Ferry's storage warehouse.

All three city fire stations were emptied by the alarm. Twenty firemen converged on the fire from the Yates Street, James Bay and Burnside fire halls.

The fire was just about to break through the roof of the rest room when it was "caught." The main damage was caused by smoke and the entire building will have to be repainted.

Chief Abbott said the fire began in a chesterfield in the rest room. The room is used as a recreation area by customs men who are allowed to smoke there.

The rest room was closed at about 5 p.m. At 10:45 an attendant in an adjacent service station noticed smoke pouring from the building and sounded the alarm.

Most of the freight unloaded from Black Ball Ferry had been removed from the warehouse but 75 boxes, each containing 720 boxes of matches, were left in the shed.

MATCHES CHARGED

When the fire spread from the rest room to the shed it charred the top of the match cases but didn't ignite them. If it had there would have been an explosion, Chief Abbott said.

He said the heat dispersed rapidly in the near-empty warehouse and this prevented the explosion. If the warehouse had been packed with merchandise the matches would probably have ignited, Chief Abbott said.

Firemen used masks to get at the fire through the smoke. Fireman Darryl Woodburn, 1745 Feltham, twisted his ankle fighting the blaze and was carried from the building. He was treated at St. Joseph's Hospital and released.

Traffic was backed up along Government St. and Wharf St. while fire rigs manoeuvred at the scene. One motorist, in trying to get out of a parking place, collided with one of the trucks and caused $75 damage by breaking a pull on a 75-foot ladder.

MIGHTY EXPLOSION would have erupted if this pile of matches had ignited during Thursday night fire at Black Ball Ferry Building, 816 Wharf Street. Here Police Inspector Ray Maitland and Sergeant Bob Mair look on scene in warehouse after firemen brought blaze under control. Cartons of matches were charred on top but heat just failed to set them off. (Photo by Robin Clarke.)

Long Arm of Law Chases Constable

Victoria police are looking for a lost Constable.

No, it isn't a policeman—it may or may not be an authentic work of 19th century landscape painter John Constable.

The painting in question, titled "Thunderstorm Over the River Stour" was stolen Wednesday from the home of owner Isabella Mowat, 663 Niagara. Also missing are papers relating to the painting.

200 YEARS OLD

Says Mrs. Mowat, 82: "I was brought up among antiques. This painting has been handed down through our family and is about 200 years old."

"Anyone who knows Constable knows his style. The sky in the painting is the same as the sky in his Salisbury Cathedral, which brought $60,000."

Says an art gallery spokesman:

"It's a very poor painting. If it didn't have a name to it it would bring about $100."

YOUNG MAN SOUGHT

"There was no indication of his style in it and I have been unable to believe it is his work."

"But if someone can trade on the name, he'll get a good price. Constable was born in 1778."

The only lead police have is that a young man purporting to be a construction work representative called on Mrs. Mowat, showing great interest in her antiques while there.

And he saw her hide her key under the front doormat

Enforce Life Jacket Rule Jury Urges Shingle Mill

A coroner's jury today recommended McCarter Shingle Co. enforce a Workman's Compensation Board ruling that all men working on the water must wear life jackets.

The jury ruled Arnold Graham, 54, of 765 Audley, drowned accidentally in the Inner Harbor Wednesday morning while working on a log boom about 30 feet from shore.

He was a non-swimmer and was wearing no life jacket or float belt.

SPLITTING LOG

Mr. Graham was splitting a log which was too large for the mill when he apparently fell from the log boom.

When Mr. Graham's body was recovered by a team of navy divers, two bruises appeared in the area of his forehead.

Sgt. Richard Ward of city police said the body was discovered in an area of open water of about 40 feet square.

He added there was open water only on one side of the log Mr. Graham was working on.

FUNERAL SATURDAY

"It appeared he was going back for more equipment. His cap was found about one-half the distance from the end of the log to the mill."

His hammer was still lying on the log and wedges were driven in along its length.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 1 p.m. at Sand's Chapel.

Ask The Times

Q—Please could you tell me the origin of April Fool's Day, which traditionally falls on April 1?—E.G.

A—Origin of this day of practical jokes and fruitless errands is much disputed. It is believed to be a relic of festivals held at the vernal equinox which started on old New Year's Day, March 25, and ended April 1.

It was not until the beginning of the 18th century that the making of April fools became a popular custom.

Q—Could you tell me if the postman keeps his tip at Christmas or does he turn it in and then it is divided among all the postmen?—H.P.

A—Gratuities given postmen at Christmas time are not recognized by the Post Office Department and letter carriers do not have to pool any tips or gifts they receive on their routes.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. They should be submitted to a dealer. Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along with the Times. Questions and answers will be published daily.

A youth was fined $100 in city magistrate's court this week for drag racing on Wesley Drive Dec. 12.

Howard Webb, 399 Caldecote, pleaded guilty to careless driving. The race ended in an accident when the driver of the other car, a juvenile, pulled in front of Webb's vehicle.

Magistrate William Ostler said he would not tolerate people drag racing in this community. He told the accused that a boy lost his life recently while taking part in a drag race in Victoria.

Esquimalt Lions Club has voted to donate seven $20 scripts for Christmas to needy families in the municipality.

In previous years, the Lions have delivered food hampers to those less fortunate.

Victoria Shrine Club will host 19 Vancouver Island children who are home for Christmas from Shrine crippled children hospitals in Spokane and Portland.

The children and parents will be treated to a Christmas party complete with turkey dinner and a visit by Santa Claus Saturday at 6:30 p.m. in the Knights of Pythias Hall, Corner Street.

A city postman received head and leg injuries when he was knocked 15 feet by a car as he crossed Yates at Quadra this morning.

Len Godfrey, 42, of 2047 Newton, is in Royal Jubilee Hospital. No report was available from hospital authorities on his condition.

City police have not yet released the name of the driver of the car involved.

Mr. Godfrey, a well-known local fisherman, has been a mail carrier since 1945.

City council Thursday approved an application to build a service station at the Fairfield Shopping Plaza despite Ald. M. H. Mooney's vehement criticism that the action breaks faith with residents of the area. He said a gentleman's agreement that no service station would be built there was arranged several years ago when the property was rezoned for a shopping centre. However, officials told aldermen the application was in complete compliance with city regulations and could not be refused.

A Christmas party for children of members of 800 Pacific Wing, RCAF Association, will be held Sunday at 2:30 p.m. at headquarters, 1212 Quadra Street.

Entertainment will be provided by Mrs. Shirley Jefferson of television's Romper Room show.

City council Thursday ordered a priority study to be made on feasibility of developing the entire Memorial Arena block for civic uses.

This would be the springboard for reviving a Class B fair in the city—similar to the old Wilfrid Laurier—Ald. Geoffrey Edgell said.

Aldermen asked city manager Dennis Young for an up-to-date report on what it would cost to level the high, rock area immediately north and east of the arena and also purchase remaining private properties in the block.

Ald. Edgell said making all the currently unused area available to the Junior Chamber of Commerce would enable them to hold a fair.

BRING GRANTS

"This would be of tremendous importance to the city and would bring us considerable federal and provincial grants for erecting buildings and also grants for competition prizes," he said.

He proposed the study as an alternative to the Jaycees request for closing of Blanshard Street in front of the arena so the space could be used for a midway during next spring's week-long fair.

MAJOR LINK

A council committee already has turned thumbs down on the street closing request in view of the 10,000-car daily load carried by Blanshard since the Rose Street extension made it a major link between downtown and Mayfair Shopping Plaza.

Ald. A. I. Curtis said the city should do something to provide a better route for the daily traffic.

It was concerned that the fair would be shifted to the Esquimalt Sports Centre causing a serious revenue loss to the arena.

DEAR ABBY...

Test Her Friendship!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I have four children but the little one takes up more of my time than any of the others. You see, she was born with an incomplete stomach (it wasn't fully developed) and she has had six operations already and she isn't even three years old. Well, I have to get up in the night with her many times, and I don't get much sleep. I try to catch a little nap in the afternoon because she sleeps for about an hour then. This friend of mine comes to visit me every afternoon without fail. She is a widow, is lonely and has nowhere else to go. She keeps me from my nap, but I can't tell her not to come or she will be hurt. What can I do?

NO SLEEP

Dear No: You are mistaken. A real friend would appreciate you telling her.

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow with an 18-year-old daughter. She works with a woman who has a shrimp for a son. He is 22. This woman influenced my daughter to start going with her son because a girl had just thrown him over and he was supposed to be all broken up. Well, before I knew it my daughter was wearing a used engagement ring and now they are talking marriage. When I told her not to be in such a hurry, the boy's mother cinched the deal by getting my daughter to move out of the house and move in with them. So now I am alone and have nothing to say. My daughter never had a boy friend before this one and won't listen to anyone. What can I do?

ON THE OUTSIDE

DEAR ON: Your daughter is of age and there is nothing you can do. Ask her, calmly and without anger, to come home. And then attempt to persuade her to give more thought to this marriage.

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I dine out often. She likes a second cup of coffee. When I ask the waitress for more coffee, she brings the pot over and starts to pour the coffee into the first cup. So then I say, "Please bring the lady a CLEAN cup," and she gives me a dirty look and says, "The lady HAS a clean cup. Nobody else used it." I am always polite. I tip well and never demand any special service. So what do I say to a waitress who gives me a sarcastic answer like this?

On arrival in Victoria, Mrs. Henderson became a Brown Owl once more and later became district commissioner. Empress Hotel Glows With Lights, Laughter

First evening of its planned Christmas season program saw the Empress Hotel glittering with colorful decorations and alive with laughter, good talk and fun.

In the Crystal Ballroom, where a Christmas tree loaded with shimmering baubles held place of interest on the orchestra dais, the Old Age Pensioners Association held a Christmas dinner and dance Thursday night.

And in the stately dining room the first of the Christmas smorgasbord parties catered to two sittings of guests with a few extra settings for good measure.

THE TRIMMIN'S

The smorgasbord table, arranged around a tall Christmas tree, was loaded with all the good foods that are a traditional part of the Yuletide season. Decorative effects were presented in a boar's head, lavishly trimmed with sugar curlicues, a suckling pig with a rosy apple in its mouth, a glazed and decorated salmon on a huge tray and a cookie tree to delight the younger guests.

White-hatted chefs and pretty maids in caps and aprons assisted in serving.

Many family parties were included in the first sitting.

Dr. and Mrs. H. D. McWilliam were there with David, James and Scott and the children's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Jack. They were celebrating Mr. Jack's birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Botten had their daughter Kathryn and her grandmother, Mrs. G. Botten with them.

Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Bowen-Collhurst were accompanied by their daughters, Rosa and Jocelyn and Mr. and Mrs. W. Hooson with Paul and Jan.

Together at a table were Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Cox and Wendy and Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Barker and Linda.

Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Selby-Hele had Linda, George and John, with them.

Another family party included Hon. Robert W. Mayhew and Mrs. Mayhew, Miss Anne Mayhew, and Mr. and Mrs. Logan Mayhew with Marilyn, Rani and Rob.

'THE DAY I REMEMBER'

Santa Didn't Make It That Year

By PAT DUFOUR

Christmas Day 1938 is the one that Lou Guilbalt will never forget. Small wonder, for he was six and learned that there wasn't any Santa Claus.

"Things were really tough for my folks that year and when I went to open my Christmas stocking I found it was filled with potatoes and carrots."

Lou Guilbalt was the youngest of four children. His parents farmed 320 acres at Mallaga, a small farming community northeast of Edmonton.

Looking back on that year of discovery, he finds that it wasn't as shattering as one might expect.

"My mother just explained that that was the best they could do. But, it didn't really matter, for the real treat was that we were going to my grandparents, as we always did."

This meant a six-mile journey by horse sleigh to Bordenave. "I still remember the thrill of that trip—not wanting it to end, yet impatient to be there, all at the same time!"

Even in that year of the "dirty 30s," Mr. and Mrs. John

Steele were able to place a platter of Tom Turkey in front of their visitors. He had been fattened on their holding for weeks in preparation for the great day.

But it wasn't the turkey that ranked in first place for Lou Guilbalt.

"My grandmother always used to serve tomatoes and I loved them. Still do, as a matter of fact."

"I remember when we were small, we'd grab them by the handful and dash out into the bush to eat them!"

Lou Guilbalt and his wife now have a son and daughter of their own. But, unlike their father, they'll be able to look forward to finding much more than potatoes and carrots in their stockings this year.

Their father agrees with Dr. Brock Chisholm that it's not an absolute catastrophe to live in a world without Santa Claus.

"But," he qualifies, "Santa adds so much to a child's Christmas. Why spoil it?"

Son of a struggling farmer, Lou Guilbalt learned the truth about Christmas giving at an early age.

IT'S ALL 'GO' AT ICE CAPADES

They Float on Clouds and Skate on Their Heads

By MARGE GILROY
Did somebody say "Go"? I hope so, because everybody went. It was family night Thursday at the Ice Capades.

THE GALLERY

OAK BAY BEACH HOTEL
We have just been dealt a bitter blow! In October we bought in Japan an assortment of beautiful merchandise for The Gallery—antique and modern paintings, wood block prints, pottery and lacquer. Now we receive word that the ship containing our wares caught fire at the Kobe docks and all our lovely pieces are destroyed. However, do visit The Gallery during the holiday season, as we have much to show you.

Rachmaninoff, Victor Herbert and Jerome Kern hiccupped, coughed and groaned. But nobody cared. Gold medalists, world champions and buffoons skated to a tempo that wasn't always there but they did it to perfection.

That was the first half of the new Ice Capade show "Go." By the second half all was well at the control tower and the music came through loud and clear.

OLD AND NEW
Choreographers transposed the Flamenco, Twist and soft shoe dance to ice and a few old routines that have been on ice for years were better than ever. And have you ever seen a tree skate? Well I have. Have you ever seen Santa Claus lit? Well I have. But one youngster knew better. "Heh look, they've all got engines in them."

Acrobatics on ice is still a big feature in star performances. The same youngster agreed, "Some of them always skate on their heads."

Costumes were gay again and former President Eisenhower would still be a cadet at West Point if the cadets looked then like they looked Thursday night. They claimed they were authentic West Point uniforms but only the boys wore them. It was a show of stars and goofs, clowns and everybody loved it.

Eric Waite, master of mimicry, joined the Ice Capades 23 years ago. He is still the best.

As a bewildered Cleopatra he didn't rival Elizabeth Taylor, but as a girl guide leader he epitomized them all.

ON A CLOUD

Everybody still loves goofy Freddie Trenker. He didn't even offend his friends from over the glen when he appeared in tartan pants and a Davy Crockett hat.

Barbara Wagner and Robert Paul still glide, spin and jump on their blades of steel as though floating on a cloud.

Once again the old Smoothies didn't make it to Victoria but the old classical smoothness was displayed by Jimmy Grogan, 13 times runner-up to Dick Button in international competitions.

For those who remember the free and easy style of Barbara Ann Scott there is 17-year-old Sarassue Gleis who stole the show in the opening number. Twice world champion Aja Zanova, petite fair-haired Grete Borgen, Per Larsen, the Maxfields—they were all there and they were good.

$25,000 Bill For Mine Repairs

The cost involved in putting the flooded Cowichan Copper Mine at Jordan River back into production will not exceed $50,000.

President O. G. "Ozzie" MacDonald says expenses will more likely be about $25,000. The roof of a mined-out stope fell away Dec. 6 allowing the river to flow into the mine and through the underground mill area.

Some men were in the mine at the time but all escaped unhurt.

Workmen have thrown up barricades at several levels and it is hoped the seepage will be stopped soon.

Twelve men are pushing timber, rocks, car bodies "and anything we can find" into the eight-by-twelve foot hole where water enters the mine from the cave-in, mine manager J. R. Billingsley said.

When this hole is filled, it should be possible to plug the hole in the stope.

It is 200 feet deep, 150 feet long and 100 feet wide.

The river flowed through this riverbed hole, into the mine and out a mine portal.

"If that's another one of them back-savin' ideas... where you do all the back-savin', I'll personally bust ya one!"

ISLAND DIGEST

Victoria Daily Times FRIDAY, DEC. 20, 1963 19

FIRST TIME IN 34 YEARS

He's Sitting Out The Card Game

By TERRY MATTE

For the first time in 34 years, Fred Brownsey won't have to sort his own Christmas cards.

Mr. Brownsey retired last week as Sooke postmaster. He hasn't missed a day of work since 1929 when he bought a general store in Sooke.

With the store came a table—the Sooke post office. The post office now has separate quarters in the Brownsey Block, owned by Fred Brownsey's son, Doug. Fred's wife, Elizabeth, retired last year as postal assistant after 33 years of service.

Mr. Brownsey came from Weymouth, England, in 1907 and operated grocery and general stores in Duncan, Cumberland and Port Alberni. (Brownsey Street in Duncan is named after Mr. Brownsey's father.)

HE STARTED IT

Five years after his arrival in Sooke, he originated All-Sooke Day.

That was in 1934, and All-Sooke Day is still one of the most popular community events on the Island.

Mr. Brownsey was also active in starting the Sooke Volunteer Fire Department.

But Mrs. Brownsey was even more active in that venture—she lent the volunteers $150 so they could buy their first truck.

The fire department now has two trucks and an ambulance.

FIRST PRESIDENT

Mr. Brownsey pioneered the West Coast Road Improvement Association, forerunner of the present Sooke Chamber of Commerce. And he was the first president of the Chamber of Commerce.

He was secretary of the Sooke Community Association for 14 years, served on the Boy Scouts Committee, and is a charter member of the Sooke branch of the Royal Canadian Legion.

He has been secretary-treasurer of the B.C. and Yukon branch of the Canadian Postmasters' Association for the past 16 years.

Mr. Brownsey and his wife are planning an extended tour of England next August.

Teachers Win 3.5% Boost

DUNCAN—A salary increase averaging 3.5 per cent has been awarded to Cowichan district's 155 teachers by an arbitration board.

Bill Duyvevaardt, spokesman for the teachers, said Cowichan teachers have "indicated sincere appreciation for the fair and just award of the salary arbitration board."

He said the award will amount to less than one mill to local taxpayers.

The basic salary schedule will be: Elementary conditional teachers, $3,100 to $3,740 with four experience increments of $160 each; elementary basic teachers, $3,600 to $5,750 with 10 increments of $215 each; elementary advanced teachers, $4,000 to $6,300 with 10 increments of $230 each.

Professional conditional teachers, $4,500 to $7,100 with 10 increments of $260 each; professional basic teachers (five years university), $5,100 to $8,180 with 11 increments of $280 each; professional advanced teachers, $5,500 to $8,855 with 11 increments of $305 each.

The range of increased rates is between 2.5 per cent and 5.2 per cent.

An administrative allowance of 10 per cent of their basic salary was awarded to principals of two or more elementary schools.

In the next day or so, you may learn something new about the taste of rye whisky.
The message takes one minute. And no more than one taste of a whisky called Time.
A gentle whisky. The taste is light, warm, smooth.

a whisky with a taste like this. You will find yourself comparing it with the whisky you usually buy. And you may find yourself changing your mind about whiskies.
The whisky in the hourglass bottle does that. The message comes through. Not loud. But clear.

"BEVEL"

SIDING

Nature has endowed the giant red cedar of British Columbia with every quality a home owner could ask for in a versatile construction material with its "built-in" weather resistance, insulation value, working ease and, above all, inherent beauty.

Western Red Cedar is the traditional choice of architects everywhere for every application. The attractive grain and warm colors of this fine wood blend beautifully with any home style, modern or traditional—in any setting, urban or rural.

Fishermen Fight Closure

BELLINGHAM (AP)—The International Pacific Salmon Fisheries Commission will meet Jan. 16 in New Westminster to discuss proposed regulations which would virtually eliminate sockeye salmon fishing for the Fraser River run next year.

Strong protests came from spokesmen for Canadian fishermen at the commission meeting which ended here Wednesday.

Proposed regulations announced Wednesday would close both sides of the Strait of Juan de Fuca to commercial sockeye fishing until Aug. 15. By that time most of the run would be over.

Peter Jenewein, representing the Canadian gillnet fishing fleet on the commission's advisory council, took issue with the commission reports that a Canadian fishermen's strike this year contributed to heavy loss of sockeye salmon in the 1963 escapement.

These reports said the spawning grounds were overpopulated while fishing fleets were idled by the strike.

"Our fishermen are quite adamant that the number of fish has nothing to do with the mortality," said Jenewein.

Young Sinatra Back on Stage

STATELINE, Nev. (UPI)—Frank Sinatra Jr. sang to an audience Thursday night for the first time since he was abducted more than a week ago and held for $240,000 ransom.

The 19-year-old singer took the stage for the 11 p.m. show at Harrah's Club, singing songs his father made famous two decades before.

Blinding snow held the crowd to a sparse 500.

But their enthusiasm for the youngster, held by three kidnappers for 54 hours before Frank Sr. paid the demanded sum for his release, was obvious by the roaring applause he received.

7,000 Cadets Attend Army Summer Camps

Over 7,000 young Canadians got a taste of military life during the army cadets' summer training program this year at cadet camps across Canada and with Canada's NATO brigade in West Germany, the army reported today.

Attendance at the 12 camps and establishments in the four army commands was: Central Command (Ontario), 2,312; Western Command (prairie provinces and British Columbia), 2,210; Quebec Command, 1,653; and Eastern Command (Maritime provinces), 861.

Sixty-five boys took trades and leadership training with the Fourth Canadian Infantry Brigade cadet corps in West Germany. Twenty attended a signal instructors' course at the army signal school in Kingston, Ont., and 213 master cadets attended advanced cadet leader courses at the National Cadet Camp in Banff, Alta.

In addition, 28 master cadets from across Canada and a seven-man pipe band from Vancouver's Seaforth Highlanders of Canada Cadet Corps spent five weeks with Jamaican cadets at Kingston, Jamaica, and a similar group of Jamaican cadets trained at cadet camps in Vernon and Banff during the same period.

'Double Jeopardy'

NEW YORK (AP)—An appellate court ruled Tuesday that Gareth Martinis, 23, son of a State Supreme Court justice, will not have to stand trial on vehicular homicide charges after his car was killed. The appellate division of the State Supreme Court held that to prosecute Martinis on the charges would be "double jeopardy."

CHOPPER ZEROES IN ON BREAK

CAMPBELL RIVER—The heavy snow this week proved the versatility of the helicopter.

B.C. Hydro was unable to find a break in their power line somewhere between Menzies Bay and April Point. Okanagan Helicopter pilot Glynn Fitzgerald flew over the area with Hydro lineman Matt Worthington, and they spotted the break within 20 minutes.

Lineman Worthington had the last word.

"It sure beats walking," he said.

Steno Faces Charge After Knife Attack

VANCOUVER (CP)—A pretty, dark-haired stenographer was charged with attempted murder Thursday following a knife attack in which a 23-year-old married woman was slashed.

Doreen Shaw Griffin, 32, employed by a lawyer here, was charged after a woman dressed as a messenger and wearing a putty nose disguise attacked Mrs. Janet Kathleen Goseline in her apartment.

Mrs. Goseline was in satisfactory condition in hospital after emergency treatment for several wounds.

A woman dressed as a messenger in almost comic opera fashion—her nose covered with a putty nose and her messenger costume exact down to the brass buttons, leather leggings, breeches and visor cap—knocked on Mrs. Goseline's door just after her husband left for work.

The "messenger," apparently armed with two knives, attacked Mrs. Goseline, slashing her at least twice. The "messenger" apparently suffered a leg wound in the attack.

ARREST MADE

Two RCMP plainclothes officers passing by in a patrol car, attracted by screams that were heard a block away, dashed into the house and an arrest was made.

Nobody Looking Over Our Shoulder

VANCOUVER (CP)—Premier W. A. C. Bennett said Thursday British Columbia will not have anyone "looking over our shoulder" in development of power on the Columbia River.

Mr. Bennett was referring at a press conference to a statement by Northern Affairs Minister Laing that the United States may ask for supervision of the money it pays B.C. for downstream benefits under the Columbia development treaty.

"There's a signed agreement between B.C. and Canada so we're not worried about this in any way," Mr. Bennett said.

The premier said the agreement between B.C. and the federal government shows clearly that all the benefits of the Columbia are to be handled by B.C. The Americans "are protected by the treaty with Canada" which should be ratified soon. Canada in turn is protected by her agreement with B.C., he said.

It's Bluegrass Minus the Hayseed

By LESLIE MULLIN

Bluegrass grows on you—when it's music.

The Willow Creek Ramblers, who play a sort of hip, cultivated bluegrass, are drawing large crowds into the Secret coffee house this week.

There's a brand of folk music not much appreciated in this day of the sophisticated, but it's beginning to grow on people.

What the Willow Creek Ramblers — Don McAllister, Phil Roth and Andy Aldridge, all of Los Angeles—play is a long way from flat and Scruggs.

Using banjo, guitar and mandolin they beat out a big sound with a sort of second, very vocal accompaniment. The instrumental sound is what's important.

ONLY THE BEST

What's best in bluegrass has been fitted into their act — swift style, big sound, deep rhythm and the rest has been omitted — the hayseed jokes, the interminable ballads with dull refrains.

In all, they present a pleasant entertainment package, one good enough to catch the eye of a major record manufacturer, anyway.

Just imagine bluegrass music with slim ties and three-button suits. That's the Willow Creek Ramblers.

FINE VOICE

Back from Seattle with an improved guitar touch and a bigger repertoire is Murray McAlpine, filling second spot this week at the Secret.

Leading Doctor Dies

VANCOUVER (CP) — Dr. Peter A. McLennan, one of British Columbia's best-known doctors, died here Wednesday at the age of 88.

Dr. McLennan, former chief of staff at Vancouver General Hospital, was a surgeon for more than 50 years. At various times he held the top post in the Medical Council of Canada, the College of Physicians and Surgeons of B.C. and the Pacific Northwest Surgical Association.

He banned still cameras and recording equipment along with TV cameras.

Divorce Official To Become Judge

OTTAWA (CP)—The government gave notice to Parliament today that it plans to designate the Senate's divorce commissioner as a judge of the Exchequer Court of Canada to deal with divorce cases from Quebec and Newfoundland.

The Senate divorce commissioner, Allison M. Walsh of Montreal, was appointed a few weeks ago in a compromise arrangement to bypass the blockade against divorce petitions having to go through both the Commons and Senate.

For several sessions, applications to Parliament for divorces from Quebec and Newfoundland residents were blocked by New Democratic Party MPs Frank Howard (Skeena) and Arnold Peters (Timiskaming), who campaigned for removal of divorce cases from Parliament.

Last August the government agreed to proposal that divorces be granted by resolution of the Senate on the recommendation of a Senate divorce commissioner. This avoided the previous requirement for the Commons to consider divorce bills.

GO STEP FURTHER

The government is understood to have decided to carry the process a further step by designating Mr. Walsh as a judge of the Exchequer Court of Canada.

Formal notice of legislation to provide another Exchequer Court judge appeared on the Commons order paper today.

A backlog of 147 divorce bills, introduced into parliament before the divorce commissioner arrangement was adopted last summer remains to be dealt with under the old procedure. These now are expected to be passed today or Saturday.

It's Humber Circus—With Grass

Rocks are out and grass is in—along with trees, tubed flowers and decorative lighting.

That was city council's final decision Thursday regarding the traffic islands at the revamped Douglas-Hillside intersection.

It also agreed to consider renaming the former Roundabout after a Victoria pioneer.

City manager Dennis Young's initial suggestion to call it Humber Circus, in honor of Maurice Humber, and denoting a multi-street intersection in the English manner, was favorably received but not formally adopted.

Mayor R. B. Wilson led council to the decision to switch to grass instead of the much-criticized rocks after parks administrator W. H. Warren said he felt the grass treatment would be preferable.

The mayor said council should choose the best decoration rather than the cheapest.

"After all, this intersection now is the gateway to the city much in the same way as the Inner Harbor used to be and I strongly feel we should do a proper job of it," he said.

Council was told the plan for trees, tubs and rocks would cost $6,300. Adding decorative lighting and substituting grass probably would raise this to about $10,000; but some $7,100 could be used from leftover Capital Improvement District Commission grants for beautifying Douglas Street.

Mr. Young said using the term "circus" would be more apt and less prosaic than just referring to the corner as a junction or intersection.

He suggested Mr. Humber's name be used to honor the brickmaker who became closely associated in early Victorians' minds with the area because of the wrought-iron horse trough and fountain which he installed at what later became the Fountain Circle, now replaced by the revamped intersection.

Mayor Wilson said the suggestion of honoring an early Victorian was worth consideration by council but a decision would require prior study by committee.

City Sets Study Of Voting Law

A full-scale study of the city voting system was launched by city council Thursday.

Aldermen asked for reports on:

Creating multiple polling stations to replace the traditional central station;

Providing free transportation to all voters;

Asking the legislature for an amendment shifting the Victoria voting day a week forward to make it uniform with the surrounding area.

Ald. M. H. Mooney asked council to push the civic election day ahead and also pointed out that this year, Regina offered all its civic voters free transportation as a method of bringing out the vote.

Ald. A. I. Curtis and returning officer Frank Hunter offered arguments against Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow's request for an updated report on multiple polling stations.

But Mayor R. B. Wilson said "there certainly is no harm in studying this again."

"The turnout this year (24 per cent of eligible voters cast ballots) was very disappointing and we should try to find some method of bringing out more people," he said.

Ald. McLean Bids Farewell to Council

Aldermen Thursday said farewell to Ald. J. L. W. McLean, defeated last week in his bid for re-election to a third term.

He was presented with a picture and Mayor R. B. Wilson expressed council's regret "that we shall miss his services."

Ald. McLean said he would miss the fellowship and challenge of being a member of council.

He said he had tried to serve on council not as a clergyman "but rather as a citizen who just happened to be a clergyman."

Ald. McLean said he has been awarded a three-month holiday in the spring by his congregation and this had almost made him pass up a re-election bid.

"The public has helped me out in making a decision I perhaps should have made myself," he said.

He added that had he won, he planned on discussing with the mayor how long he could have been spared from council.

He had not expected this to be the full three months.

Large Business Cool To Subsidized Staff

Large Victoria businesses have indicated they do not want subsidized employees, according to National Employment Service manager George Bevis.

He said the reaction here to the federal government's offer of incentive payments to firms employing and training unemployed persons over 45 is mixed.

With the offer closing Jan. 31, only six employers have responded, and all are in the three-to-ten-employee groups.

"The outlook of larger firms," Mr. Bevis said, "is that if they need someone, they will hire someone.

"They don't want to be subsidized."

He said trade unions also feel it is not a practical plan for large organizations.

"I originally visualized this as more useful to employers of 25 or less," he said.

"We have more applicants than firms right now. We would like more smaller businesses to respond."

Offers have been received from a law firm, a poultry farmer, building supplier and electric shaver repairer among others.

PENSIONERS' PARTY

They Shed Years And Added Pounds

By RON SUDLOW

They call themselves old age pensioners.

But 600 youngsters over 65 didn't show their years Thursday evening as they jammed the Empress Hotel's Crystal Ballroom for the fourth annual Christmas dinner of Victoria No. 1 Branch, Old Age Pensioners' Association.

They consumed 500 pounds of turkey, 470 pounds of vegetables, 40 gallons of tea and coffee and 60 pounds of plum pudding topped with eight gallons of sauce.

OVERFLOW

Cost of the meal was $1,125. The crowd was so large it overflowed into the lobby adjoining the ballroom. The hotel staff was forced to slither between the rows of tables.

Oldest in attendance were J. R. Kemsley and Albert Gratton, both 92.

Eldest woman was Mrs. Jean MacKenzie, a spry 91. She was accompanied by her daughter, Vixen, 72.

Following dinner and prize draws the pensioners entertained themselves by joining Mrs. George Ford, 74, who sang "Love Me and the World Is Mine" and "Flow Gently, Sweet Afton."

Her accompanist on the piano was Mrs. Adam Buchan.

She was followed by Mrs. Lillian Ashworth, 79, who recited "The Recumbent Posture," from the "Albert and the Lion" series, and "The Night After Christmas," a parody of "Twas the Night Before Christmas."

WIFE HELPED

Sleight-of-hand artist Carl Hemeon who said he "could make anything disappear except my mother-in-law" proved it, too, with the help of his wife, Lottie.

Following Mr. Hemeon's exhibition of wizardry, tables were cleared away and dancing followed.

POLKA-DOT SATELLITE IN ORBIT

POINT ARGUELLO, Calif. (AP)—The Christmas Star satellite has achieved orbit and should be visible at twilight over the holiday season—and for years later, it was announced today.

A U.S. space agency spokesman said both the 12-foot diameter balloon and the canister from which it was ejected in space were sighted with binoculars at an optical tracking station in Australia.

The polka-dot satellite was launched Thursday and until the sighting it was in doubt whether it had achieved orbit and inflated as planned.

SOLUTION MONDAY

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—"Actors are one of our oldest minority groups," said Charlton Heston, with an amused bitterness in his voice, one night recently in Sardi's. He was speaking out against hotels and clubs that bar our leading thespians strictly for professional reasons.

"You must have heard of Victor Mature being told by a Los Angeles club, 'We don't accept actors.'"

"Mature told them, 'I'm not an actor and I've got 22 pictures to prove it.' It didn't help him anyway."

Several so-called "city clubs" in California won't take actors as members—and there are some major European hotels, including one of the most famous in Madrid, that don't want actors living under the same roof.

"Jimmy Stewart was assigned to Madrid to serve a couple of months with SAC in Spain," Heston remembered. He forwarded requests for a reservation using the name 'Brig-Gen. James Stewart.' Now that's a fairly common name but they found him out. They said, 'We don't cater to members of your profession.' Jimmy said, 'Wahl, now, see here ...'

But Jimmy Stewart didn't beat the ban nor did David Niven, a friend of one of the proprietors. "Old chap, can't we work this out?" Niven asked, arm on his shoulder. "Not a chance, old boy, I'm afraid," replied his friend. "It would be as though we were setting fire to Franco."

Famous Claridge's in London and Connaught's, also, were anti-actor for years and, as Heston put it, "Perhaps that's because actors tend to be a rather raffish group. We seem to incline toward drunks and wife-beaters."

THE WEEK-END WINDUP...

A friend of Robert Mitchum saw one of his early films and asked, "Why did you ever make such a clunker?" Mitchum replied: "To get out of the house." ... Alfred Hitchcock, who always appears in his own movies, cut himself down to a shadow, in "Marnie" ... Skinny

Cancer Men Turn Down French Plan

PARIS (Reuters)—Cancer research experts from the United States and four Western countries Wednesday turned down a French proposal to set up an international organization to fight the disease.

Sources close to the meeting said it was decided instead that something "original and distinct within the framework of existing bodies like the world health organization" should be set up.

The experts agreed to meet again next month—probably in Paris—after reporting back to their respective governments.

They said an entirely new cancer centre would be too complicated, take too long and be too much of a burden. The French plan—backed by President de Gaulle—proposed the establishment of an international research centre financed by a one-half per cent cut in each country's military budget.

This would have provided $5,600,000 a week for research. Besides the U.S. and France other countries taking part in the two-day meeting were Britain, West Germany and Italy.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and the second questioner a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of World Book Encyclopedia to Bobby Yell, age 9, of Huntsville, Ala., for his question:

Does a mole have eyes?

Mr. Mole spends his life digging tunnels through the crumbly soil. Down there in the darkness there is no sunshine, no daylight. His life is an endless night. Even a sharp-eyed cat cannot see in jet-black darkness. The busy mole could not see anything in his dark tunnels, even if he had the sharpest eyes in the world.

Many people think that the bat is blind. But this furry flier can see in the dim twilight as well as you can. His eyesight is far sharper than the eyesight of the underground mole. If you examine Mr. Mole, you might think that he is quite blind. Chances are you could not find his eyes at all, and without eyes, of course, he could not see.

However, the little digger does have a pair of eyes. They are hidden in his furry face, just where you would expect them to be. Each eye is no bigger than the head of an ordinary pin. The little fellow cannot see much with such tiny eyes, and he is almost, but not quite blind.

Mr. Mole could not see a thing in the midnight darkness of his tunnels. Big, sharp eyes would be no use to him. Besides, they would cause him trouble. It would be impossible to keep crumbs of soil and gritty stones from getting into a pair of big, bright eyes. His eyes are just right for the kind of life he lives.

All year long, he digs his dark tunnels and never pokes his head above the ground. If this were the whole story, he would need no eyes at all. But there comes a time when Mr. and Mrs. Mole get ready to have a family. They are good parents and want the very best for their children. The babies will need a cosy nest, and Mr. Mole gets busy collecting the soft materials to build it.

He attacks gophers and voles, snakes and even other moles when he meets them in his tunnels. And he is strong and brave enough to win all his battles. But once each year he risks his life. When he goes upstairs to find stuffing for the nest, he can be seen by owls and hungry weasels, by dogs and many other enemies. And the little fellow's eyes are not sharp enough to warn him of the danger.

The mole is a scrappy fellow, always ready to pick a fight.

Moles Attack Snakes

Chances are he may have to go above the ground to find leaves and other soft scraps to line the nest. He uses his nose to guide him, for his little eyes cannot see anything clearly. He sees only light and dark patches of the scenery. Mr. Mole does his chores and scuttles away from this scary world as fast as he can.

The mole is a scrappy fellow, always ready to pick a fight.

British actress Julie Christie (of "Billy Liar") refuses to act like a glamour doll: "When I'm seen in public behind large, dark glasses—they're filled with beer." ... Edie Adams' sexy outfit in "Love With a Proper Stranger" is a pyjama top. ... Singer Jerry Vale and his neighbor, singer Jimmy Dean, will be partners in a L.A. real estate venture ... Teresa Brewer will be the guest of Governor Muñoz-Marin when she appears in Puerto Rico in '64.

Paul Anka's 20-day tour of Germany in February will cost the promoters 5Gs a day. ... Louis Armstrong goes into the El Dorado in San Juan on Christmas Day (arranged by Joe Glaser). ... Jose Duval, who tangoes with Carol Lynley in "The Cardinal," is up for a featured spot in "I Picked a Daisy." ... Sybil Burton showed off the new London dance fad, "the Cherry Grove," at the Steak Pit. ... The backstage signs at "Luther" (which deals with the Protestant Reformation) don't say merely "Silence"—they warn: "The penance for noisemaking is hideous."

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH:

Taffy Tuttle read that the U.S. is working towards total disarmament, and wonders how that'll affect "Gunsmoke" and "Bonanza."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: If raising children becomes much more expensive, we can expect someone to come up with a rental plan. Arnold Glasgow.

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "Nothing will put a man deeper in debt than a small raise in his salary." —Phuleur Maloney.

EARL'S PEARLS: When a B'way character tells you he's fishing through the ice, he's speaking cherries and olives. If you're a joiner, Bob Orben has a new club for you. It's the John Brunch Society, for people who can't get up in time for breakfast. That's earl, brother.

DAD MEETS DAUGHTER AFTER 35 YEARS APART

VANCOUVER (CP)—A Burnaby man was reunited Wednesday with a daughter he hadn't seen for 35 years.

For John and Maria Varga it promises to be the best Christmas ever. Mrs. Varga last saw her daughter more than 10 years ago.

The reunion took place at Vancouver International Airport where Varga clasped his 37-year-old Maria.

Varga came to Canada from Czechoslovakia in 1928 and left his wife and daughter at home.

"I came here to make some money," he said, "and hoped to return to build us a home. But then came the depression and the war."

Varga's wife joined him here in 1953, but his daughter, who had married, stayed behind.

New Deal Pushed On School Votes

Doncaster School PTA will continue its fight for a new deal on school construction financing and voting at the April convention of the B.C. Parent-Teacher Federation in Vancouver.

Mrs. Barbara Rolfs, Doncaster president, said her group is sending a resolution asking for abolition of building bylaw referendums.

The resolution is the only one going from this area.

It has been endorsed by the Victoria Parent-Teacher Council.

If a pre-convention committee accepts the submission and the convention approves, the government will be asked to amend the Public Schools Act to allow local school boards to borrow for capital construction programs without the consent of ratepayers.

PRECEDENTS

There is ample precedent to such a system, Mrs. Rolfs said. It is not the first submission on school financing made by the Doncaster group, which sought this year to have the province pay 80 per cent of school construction instead of 60 per cent.

Doncaster PTA struck a committee to research the system of capital financing in other provinces and replies were received from all but Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia.

Four other provinces have a simple initiative system requiring no referendum, Mrs. Rolfs said. They are Alberta, Ontario, Quebec and New Brunswick.

PETITION AGAINST

In Quebec and Alberta a public notice of intention is given. Objectors may then petition against it, following a specified procedure.

In Manitoba only a simple majority is required to pass a referendum, whereas in B.C. there must be 60 per cent approval, according to requirements of the Public Schools Act.

But there is a second factor that makes passage of a bylaw easier—all resident electors are entitled to vote, not just owner electors as here. The city of Winnipeg is an exception to this, the committee was told.

Albertans may petition against an initiative, as in Quebec.

TWO PLANS

Saskatchewan has two types of district in the first of which only a simple majority is needed to pass a bylaw. Larger districts in that province require no referendum.

Newfoundland has a denominational school system that requires a 70 per cent vote in favor of high school construction and 60 per cent approval of elementary school building.

Uvic Head Picked From 40

Selection of University of Victoria president Dr. Malcolm G. Taylor was made by the board of governors after a review of some 40 candidates from as far off as Europe.

The task of screening was undertaken by a committee composed of chairman Willard Ireland, provincial archivist; Mayor R. B. Wilson and university chancellor Judge J. B. Clearihue, who met many times over the past 10 months.

Many prospects were interviewed personally, and within recent weeks the possible candidates were narrowed down to four.

Judge Clearihue, in making the announcement, paid tribute to a "most excellent committee" of faculty which aided in the search for the university's top executive.

Delayed for Hearings

OTTAWA (CP)—Immigration Minister Favreau informed the Commons Thursday the government does not intend to proceed with legislation setting up an Indian claims commission until all interested parties have had an opportunity to make their views known.

Causeway Aid Still In Works Says Mayor

Mayor R. B. Wilson said Thursday federal government officers are studying his request for assistance towards reconstructing the Causeway with a lower promenade.

Engineering studies have shown the Causeway must be bolstered before the Inner Harbor can be dredged, he pointed out to a meeting Tuesday he arranged in Ottawa with federal and provincial representatives.

"I think everyone at the meeting had a full appreciation of the problem but no conclusions were reached," he said.

The mayor said that another meeting last week indicated that the city has little hope of being able to use the federal Municipal Development Loan Fund for its City Hall reconstruction and expansion project.

"But it appears that some of the other building projects in the Centennial Victoria Square program may qualify for this assistance," he said.

Arthur Mayse

We knew a couple once, and a dreary pair they were, who never sent Christmas cards.

Not only that, but from October on, they let it be known that they considered card-giving and receiving one of the reasons why Christmas has degenerated into a pagan festival.

We dropped in on them one Christmas week, and even though they had a fire in the fireplace and a tree in the corner, their living room seemed chilly.

No cards.

Weekly, we listened to our host hold forth on the crass commercialism of modern Christmas while we nibbled our portion of fruitcake. But as soon as we could without being downright rude, we took off from there for a house where people liked Christmas cards, and the air was warmer.

At our place, the cards have now overflowed the mantel and are seeping out to the tables. That's just dandy! I hope the flow continues! As far as we're concerned, those gay rectangles with their pointillism and holly, their messages simple or florid, are as much a part of the season as cranberry sauce and 'Come All Ye Faithful'.

The wonderful thing about Christmas cards is that they lead us back to our friends as if a time string were attached to each.

The very smart Manhattan production is from a woman editor who visited us. She was deathly scared of cougars, a circumstance that delighted us in one who risked her neck daily among Manhattan's swarming cats.

"No cougar within miles of here," we assured her. "You can live on this island all your life and not see a wild cougar."

Even so, she buttoned her bedroom window tight... and a year or two later, we mailed her a clipping about the panther that got himself shot on Government Street.

Our Ontario cards always run heavy to simplicity and snow. We exchange greetings with a sea captain and his wife, Newfoundlanders both, who never can agree on how to pronounce their native province. Their card wouldn't be complete without a boat.

California tends to flaunt its summer-in-winter. From that state once, and for no reason I could arrive at, we got a card signed by Elvis

Presley. I was a pretty important person that Christmas, let me tell you! Our young conducted daily tours of juveniles past The Card, which was all but worn out when we stowed it away.

Our biggest cards this year are a pair of color photographs that rate an end table to themselves. There's another photograph, a little driftwood study in black and white by a Salt Spring Island friend who handles camera and typewriter with equal skill.

The mobile which we have come to believe inevitable must still be in the mails, and so is the card from the friends we have seen twice in 20 years.

He is a Saskatchewan doctor who likes trout fishing, she an artist. We found her sketching, one rainy day, in a little streamside park up-Island.

They got talking. We told her the alder in the foreground of her sketch was the one we met under as kids. I came back from my fishing, and with the last of the light, the doctor-angler trudged up from the river.

We persuaded the operator of the lodge where we were staying to bend his "guests only" rule and feed the hungry pair. I mended the doctor's broken rod tip, he gave me some brown-trout flies, and we started them back toward Courtenay with the amiable casual goodbyes you reserve for those you don't expect to hear from again.

That December, we got a Christmas card from the Saskatchewaner, if you can so describe a framed oil painting about two feet square, with a familiar old alder in the foreground.

Last August, we drove north to have lunch with them again. Our next meeting, which we defied the fates by arranging, will be in 1968, when those friends retire to Vancouver Island.

We'll have their greeting any mail now. Theirs and others... sentimental, commercial as all get-out, but renewing friendships we'd grieve to lose.

BADLY INJURED DRIVER was taken from this car by Saanich police after it went out of control and smashed into a power pole at Quadra Street and McKenzie Avenue shortly after 2 a.m. today. Charles W. Taylor, 30, of 722 Lily, is reported to be in only fair condition at Royal Jubilee Hospital with head injuries. Mr. Taylor, an assistant department manager with the T. Eaton Co., is married and has one son. Here Corporal Walter Mycock examines the car which is a total wreck.

BUT UBC RAISED

Uvic Entry Standard Stays at 50 Per Cent

Admission barriers against high school students were raised today by the University of B.C., but not by the University of Victoria.

A UBC announcement said currently required 50 per cent average in a full set of Grade 12 examinations will be boosted to 60 per cent for all students trying to enter next fall in order to cut down the rapid increase in student population.

But University of Victoria dean of arts and sciences Robert Wallace said the senate voted only this week to keep the present requirements on the basis of a thorough study by a seven-member committee set up three months ago.

"We are not weakening or lowering our standards," said Dean Wallace.

"But we want to give as many people as possible a chance to try themselves in a university situation as long as we can. We may, of course, have to revise our admission requirements someday in the future."

Uvic registration officials had projected this year's 900-freshman total to 1,100 next fall, but the two decisions announced today undoubtedly will boost the increase beyond the 200-mark. However, it is too early to determine if the boost will be of significant proportions.

MOTIVATED

It was pointed out that mainland students with a Grade 12 university entrance average between 50 and 60 per cent who make the journey to Victoria to obtain a college education are more likely to be among those who are strongly motivated.

The Uvic decision was made by the senate when it adopted the report of a standing committee on admission requirements and standards which is to make annual reviews of the situation.

The two main recommendations were: 1. If any change in admission requirements is to be made, high school students should be given at least one year's notice so that the rules are not revised while they are in the midst of Grade 12. 2. No change be made for the academic year beginning in September, 1964.

The UBC announcement said admission requirements were raised in order to spot more of the first-year drop-outs—totaling 50 per cent of the average freshman class.

Auction Fails To Sell Monterey Site

No bids were received at a sheriff's auction in Victoria Courthouse Thursday for property at the northeast corner of Douglas and Hillside, formerly occupied by the Monterey restaurant.

The property was put up for auction at an upset price of $104,000.

"About 12 persons attended the auction but no bids were made," Sheriff Eric Wilkinson said today.

The Monterey restaurant was destroyed by fire in October, 1961. Its owner, Maurice Wincure, was negotiating with several prospects for construction of a large hotel on the site.

FAILED

But negotiations collapsed when it was announced the land would be sold at a sheriff's auction to pay off mortgage company debts.

It is now expected the land will go to the holders of the first mortgage, Centennial Mortgage Corporation, Ltd., Vancouver.

David Youngson, counsel for the corporation, said under the terms of a court order, if the property was not sold by auction, it would go to the first mortgagee.

DELAYED

He said Centennial Mortgage had delayed taking over the property because the second mortgagee, Toronto-Dominion Bank, wanted it auctioned.

Mr. Wincure purchased the restaurant in March, 1961, for $238,000. After it was destroyed by fire, he said the restaurant would be rebuilt if he could find a financial backer.

Damage in Fire Hits $25,000

'Lucky Save' At Black Ball Says Chief

All city firemen on duty Thursday night were called out to fight a blaze that caused an estimated $25,000 damage to the Black Ball Ferry building, 816 Wharf Street.

Firemen using five rigs brought the blaze under control in 20 minutes but were on the scene for another two hours before it was finally extinguished.

They were lucky, said Fire Chief John Abbott.

If they have been five minutes later on the scene the fire would have spread through the entire building, he explained.

IN REST ROOM

As it was, firemen were able to confine the fire to the Canada Customs rest room where it started and to an adjoining stairway that leads to Black Ball Ferry's storage warehouse.

All three city fire stations were emptied by the alarm. Twenty firemen converged on the fire from the Yates Street, James Bay and Burnside fire halls.

The fire was just about to break through the roof of the rest room when it was "caught." The main damage was caused by smoke and the entire building will have to be repainted.

Chief Abbott said the fire began in a chesterfield in the rest room. The room is used as a recreation area by customs men who are allowed to smoke there.

The rest room was closed at about 5 p.m. At 10:45 an attendant in an adjacent service station noticed smoke pouring from the building and sounded the alarm.

Most of the freight unloaded from Black Ball Ferry had been removed from the warehouse but 75 cases, each containing 720 boxes of matches, were left in the shed.

MATCHES CHARGED

When the fire spread from the rest room to the shed it charred the top of the match cases but didn't ignite them. If it had there would have been an explosion, Chief Abbott said.

He said the heat dispersed rapidly in the near-empty warehouse and this prevented the explosion. If the warehouse had been packed with merchandise the matches would probably have ignited, Chief Abbott said.

Firemen used masks to get at the fire through the smoke. Fireman Darryl Woodburn, 1745 Feltham, twisted his ankle fighting the blaze and was carried from the building. He was treated at St. Joseph's Hospital and released.

Traffic was backed up along Government St. and Wharf St. while fire rigs manoeuvred at the scene. One motorist, in trying to get out of a parking place, collided with one of the trucks and caused $75 damage by breaking a pull on a 75-foot ladder.

MIGHTY EXPLOSION would have erupted if this pile of matches had ignited during Thursday night fire at Black Ball Ferry Building, 816 Wharf Street. Here Police Inspector Ray Maitland and Sergeant Bob Mair look on scene in warehouse after firemen brought blaze under control. Cartons of matches were charred on top but heat just failed to set them off. (Photo by Robin Clarke.)

Long Arm of Law Chases Constable

Victoria police are looking for a lost Constable.

No, it isn't a policeman—it may or may not be an authentic work of 19th century landscape painter John Constable.

The painting in question, titled "Thunderstorm Over the River Stour" was stolen Wednesday from the home of owner Isabella Mowat, 665 Niagara. Also missing are papers relating to the painting.

200 YEARS OLD

Says Mrs. Mowat, 82: "It was brought up among antiques. This painting has been handed down through our family and is about 200 years old."

"Anyone who knows Constable knows his style. The sky in the painting is the same as the sky in his Salisbury Cathedral, which brought $60,000."

Says an art gallery spokesman:

"It's a very poor painting. If it didn't have a name to it it would bring about $100."

YOUNG MAN SOUGHT

"There was no indication of his style in it and I have been unable to believe it is his work."

"But if someone can trade on the name, he'll get a good price. Constable was born in 1776."

The only lead police have is that a young man purporting to be a construction work representative called on Mrs. Mowat, showing great interest in her antiques while there. And he saw her hide her key under the front doormat.

Enforce Life Jacket Rule Jury Urges Shingle Mill

A coroner's jury today recommended McCarter Shingle Co. enforce a Workman's Compensation Board ruling that all men working on the water must wear life jackets.

The jury ruled Arnold Graham, 54, of 765 Audley, drowned accidentally in the Inner Harbor Wednesday morning while working on a log boom about 30 feet from shore.

He was a non-swimmer and was wearing no life jacket or float belt.

SPLITTING LOG

Mr. Graham was splitting a log which was too large for the mill when he apparently fell from the log boom.

When Mr. Graham's body was recovered by a team of navy divers, two bruises appeared in the area of his forehead.

Sgt. Richard Ward of city police said the body was discovered in an area of open water of about 40 feet square.

He added there was open water only on one side of the log. Mr. Graham was working on.

FUNERAL SATURDAY

"It appeared he was going back for more equipment. His cap was found about one-half the distance from the end of the log of the mill."

His hammer was still lying on the log and wedges were driven in along its length.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 1 p.m. at Sand's Chapel.

Ask The Times

Q—Please could you tell me the origin of April Fool's Day, which traditionally falls on April 1?—E.G.

A—Origin of this day of practical jokes and fruitless errands is much disputed. It is believed to be a relic of festivals held at the vernal equinox which started on old New Year's Day, March 25, and ended April 1.

It was not until the beginning of the 18th century that the making of April fools became a popular custom.

Q—Could you tell me if the postman keeps his tip at Christmas or does he turn it in and then it is divided among all the postmen?—H.P.

A—Gratuities given postmen at Christmas time are not recognized by the Post Office Department and letter carriers do not have to pool any tips or gifts they receive on their routes.

All questions should deal with matters of general interest and should be submitted to a dealer. Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to the Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

TOPICS of the DAY

Junior group of the Victoria Natural History Society has cancelled its weekly outing this Saturday.

But members will be on hand at Francis Park on Sunday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. to work at the Nature House.

A youth was fined $100 in city magistrate's court this week for drag racing on Wesley Drive Dec. 12.

Howard Webb, 399 Caldecote, pleaded guilty to careless driving. The race ended in an accident when the driver of the other car, a juvenile, pulled in front of Webb's vehicle.

Magistrate William Ostler said he would not tolerate people drag racing in this community. He told the accused that a boy lost his life recently while taking part in a drag race in Victoria.

Esquimalt Lions Club has voted to donate seven $20 scripts for Christmas to needy families in the municipality.

In previous years, the Lions have delivered food hampers to those less fortunate.

Victoria Shrine Club will host 19 Vancouver Island children who are home for Christmas from Shrine crippled children hospitals in Spokane and Portland.

The children and parents will be treated to a Christmas party complete with turkey dinner and a visit by Santa Claus Saturday at 6:30 p.m. in the Knights of Pythias Hall, Commercial Street.

A city postman received head and leg injuries when he was knocked 15 feet by a car as he crossed Yates at Quadra this morning.

Len Godfrey, 42, of 2047 Newton, is in Royal Jubilee Hospital. No report was available from hospital authorities on his condition.

City police have not yet released the name of the driver of the car involved.

Mr. Godfrey, a well-known local fisherman, has been a mail carrier since 1945.

City council Thursday approved an application to build a service station at the Fairfield Shopping Plaza despite

Ald. M. H. Mooney's vehement criticism that the action breaks faith with residents of the area. He said a gentleman's agreement that no service station would be built there was arranged several years ago when the property was rezoned for a shopping centre. However, officials told aldermen the application was in complete compliance with city regulations and could not be refused.

A Christmas party for children of members of 800 Pacific Wing, RCAF Association, will be held Sunday at 2:30 p.m. at headquarters, 1212 Quadra Street.

Entertainment will be provided by Mrs. Shirley Jefferson of television's Romper Room show.

Police Commissioner William Hamilton today was the first man to be awarded an honorary Victoria police chief's badge.

Mayor R. B. Wilson, as chairman of the committee, presented the inscribed badge as a token of appreciation "from the commission and all citizens" to mark Mr. Hamilton's retirement after 12 years' service on the commission.

Oil companies were invited today to tell the provincial government what new lands they would like to explore in B.C.

Chief Mines Commissioner Ken B. Blakey said applications will close Jan. 31.

The list of properties will be considered for the next sale of Crown petroleum and natural gas rights, scheduled for late March.

Exact date will be announced soon, Mr. Blakey said.

The medical director of Woodlands School for the Retarded is resigning next year, Health Minister Eric Martin said today.

Dr. L. A. Kerwood is leaving the school in New Westminster, on Jan. 3 although his resignation is not effective until Jan. 31.

Mr. Martin said Dr. Kerwood is going to Jola Yerdun Protestant Hospital at Montreal.

Deputy Mental Health Director Dr. F. G. Tucker will take over administration of Woodlands until a successor to Dr. Kerwood is named.

City council Thursday ordered a priority study to be made on feasibility of developing the entire Memorial Arena block for civic uses.

This would be the springboard for reviving a Class B fair in the city—similar to the old Willows fair—Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow said.

Aldermen asked city manager Dennis Young for an up-to-date report on what it would cost to level the high rock area immediately north and east of the arena and also purchase remaining private properties in the block.

Ald. Edgelow said making all the currently unused area available to the Junior Chamber of Commerce would enable them to bring in a Class B category.

BRING GRANTS

"This would be of tremendous importance to the city and would bring us considerable federal and provincial grants for erecting buildings and also grants for competition prizes," he said.

He proposed the study as an alternative to the Jaycees request for closing of Blanshard Street in front of the arena so the space could be used for a midway during next spring's week-long fair.

MAJOR LINK

A council committee already has turned thumbs down on the street closing request in view of the 10,000-car daily load carried by Blanshard since the Rose Street extension made it a major link between downtown and Mayfair Shopping Plaza.

Ald. A. I. Curtis said the city should do something to provide because the arena commission was concerned that the fair would be shifted to the Esquimalt Sports Centre causing a serious revenue loss to the arena.

early report on practicability of developing the entire block, partly rocky and some of it privately owned, for civic purposes and fair.

Bank Robber, Wife Go to Jail

VANCOUVER (CP)—A convicted bank robber and his wife had a last kiss in assize court today before they were taken away to serve sentences.

William Isted, 46, and his wife, Sylvia, 32, had only a brief moment to embrace after Mr. Justice Craig Munroe pronounced sentence and ordered court officers to "take them away."

Isted was sentenced to 12 years for the Aug. 13 $3,500 robbery of a branch of the Toronto-Dominion Bank.

U.S. Drug Company Indicted

WASHINGTON (AP)—The William S. Merrill Company was indicted by a federal grand jury today on charges of making false statements to the government about the anti-cholesterol drug, Mer-23, and tests made to determine its safety.

The indictment returned by a grand jury in U.S. district court here said the company and three of its research scientists "concealed and covered up, by trick and scheme," material facts important to the food and drug administration.

Commons Rejects Fair Symbol

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons today rejected the proposed symbol for the 1967 Montreal world's fair and ordered that a new one be designed before the end of 1964.

Weather Cancels U.K. Sports

LONDON (Reuters)—Snow and frost have hit Saturday British sports program, causing the postponement of several fixtures.

All horse racing meetings scheduled were called off. The Aberdeen vs. Dunfermline Scottish League First Division soccer match was postponed.

Several Rugby Union and Rugby League matches also were cancelled.

Foreign Aid Bill Disagreement

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate and House conferees on the foreign aid bill broke up in disagreement today, and Representative Otto E. Passman (Dem.-La.) said, "there will be no bill this year."

Passman, chairman of the House conferees, stormed out of the third meeting today of the two groups almost immediately after they got together.

He told reporters the Senate conferees insisted on a compromise $3,100,000,000 measure "and this we refused to accept."

MARTIN ON COLUMBIA

'Talks Going Very Well'

By ALEX YOUNG
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—External Affairs Minister Paul Martin today said Canada was on the verge of successfully winding up Columbia River negotiations with the United States.

He said he hoped just-resumed negotiations would end tonight.

"Things are going very well," he told reporters when he emerged briefly from the discussions at noon.

"They are going as reasonably well as could be expected. There are some hurdles, yet, of course. This is a very complicated matter. But we hope to complete matters today and I don't think—I hope we won't—have to meet again."

At issue in the discussions is settlement of a price the U.S. will pay for B.C.'s share of downstream power benefits made possible by Canadian control, by means of three dams, of floodwaters of the International river.

The Americans reportedly have offered in negotiations a week ago, a bulk payment of $420 million. This apparently would meet the demands of B.C. Premier Bennett who seeks enough in downstream benefits payments to pay for the development on the Canadian side of the river.

Even if the Canada-U.S. negotiations reach a successful conclusion soon, several obstacles still must be overcome to permit a go-ahead on the project.

One will be examination of the Canada-U.S. Columbia development treaty and its amendments by a committee of the House of Commons, a process expected to take several months. Then approval of the Commons will be required, to be followed by Canadian government ratification.

KOREAN FUND

Small Boys
Plus Holly
Equals Food

This year holly sold in Esquimalt will mean barley for youngsters in Korea.

Last Sunday three 11-year-old boys, Brock Hare, Michael Gervais and Bobby MacLean decided there was so much holly around the old Anson Street home of Brock's parents that it should be put to use.

Why not sell it and turn the money over to the "Korean Kiddies' Fund?"

That is what they did. They cut, treated and sold $4 worth on their first trip around the married quarters at Esquimalt Garrison.

ONLY BEGINNING

But that was only the beginning. Starting this weekend the boys are looking forward to three straight days of heavy sales, as more families return home from Germany.

Every twig of holly sold means food for a hungry child. And from Marfield Avenue comes another letter:

"This season we decided that our holly tree could serve a purpose. So we have sold some of the holly for you. Next year we hope to sell more."

From a bridge game came $15. A woman wrote saying she invited her friends in for a game and then turned the winnings over to the "Korean Kiddies' Fund."

These are just a few of the boys and girls to whom the Korean children would like to say "thank you."

STUDENTS HELP

Others are students at St. Margaret's and Glenlyon Schools; apprentices at HMCS Naden. Evelyn and her piggy bank and many many more.

If you have a contribution to make send it to the "Korean Kiddies' Fund," care of the Times, 2631 Douglas, or leave it at the Bank of Montreal, main branch, Yates and Douglas.

Acknowledgment of all donations will be made in a list published daily in the Times and official receipts will be sent later from USC headquarters.

Donations of clothing are being accepted at Dowell's Cartage and Storage Ltd., 1117 Wharf Street.

Commons Boils Again
Over Extradition Case

OTTAWA (CP)—With the opposition claiming there has been an injustice, Justice Minister Chevrier declined three times in the House of Commons today to say specifically whether he knew John Wasylchuk was on parole when he signed his extradition warrant last Saturday.

When Opposition Leader Diefenbaker in another attempt asked whether Mr. Chevrier told B.C. Liberal Leader Ray Perrault that he didn't know Wasylchuk was on parole, Mr. Chevrier said he couldn't recall all details of a phone conversation with Mr. Perrault and then added:

"I'm sure I didn't make that statement."

The exchange developed as the controversial Wasylchuk case burst on the House for the second straight day.

Wasylchuk was surrendered Wednesday to FBI authorities to face robbery and murder charges in Seattle in connection with a 1954 bank holdup in which a policeman was killed.

At the time, he was on parole under life sentence for a Canadian robbery conviction.

The Commons' opposition contends that the Parole Act says a parolee still is under sentence, and that the Extradition Act says a person under sentence cannot be extradited.

Mr. Chevrier said today he didn't wish to be drawn into a legal argument on this point.

"Therefore I shall restrict myself simply to saying that I have been advised by the legal officers of my department that neither by force of section 24 of the Extradition Act nor section 11 of the Parole Act, nor both, is a person who is at large on parole to be considered as a person who is, to use their words, 'undergoing a sentence within the meaning of the Extradition Act.'"

However, he said under questioning that this point was not raised until after he signed the extradition warrant last Saturday.

Mr. Chevrier said that when he signed the warrant, he had before him one B.C. Supreme Court judgment committing Wasylchuk for extradition, and another rejecting a habeas corpus application made on Wasylchuk's behalf, plus the advice of justice department officers.

He said any justice minister would have signed the warrant under those circumstances.

Mr. Diefenbaker challenged that statement.

'No Apology' On Caravelle

OTTAWA—Prime Minister Pearson made it clear in the Commons today that the Canadian government had made no statement to Sud Aviation makers of the Caravelle jet, that might be interpreted as in nature of an "apology," over the controversy that developed in Canada. (See story Page 2).

Meantime Canadair has disclaimed any part in the pressure campaign to have the government reverse Trans-Canada Airlines decision to purchase the DC-9 medium range jet. A letter from J. Geoffrey Notman, president of Canadair Limited, Montreal, to Transport Minister McIlraith was tabled in the House.

Rural Areas
Low in Food

HALIFAX (CP)—At least 10 persons died and two others were missing as a blizzard pounded with hurricane force at Newfoundland today after leaving the Maritime provinces virtually paralyzed.

Winds that reached a force of 100 miles an hour in gusts caused mountainous seas.

Six seamen died when the heavy seas overturned dories in which they abandoned the sinking freighter Mary Pauline out bound for Newfoundland, of North Sydney, N.S. Only one man was rescued.

Five other ships were in trouble, some of them aground, others with engine trouble in stormy seas.

Food supplies ran low today in some suburban and rural areas where roads were still blocked. Many scattered sections of northern Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island were without power and telephone service.

Two Nova Scotia men—Albert Dauphinee, 78, of Bridgewater, and Harold Alexander Crawford, 55, of Halifax—died of heart attacks while shovelling snow.

Dragger Missing in Fundy Bay

John Baillie, 85, of Truro died, apparently from concussion, after being struck by a storm door blown back by the 85-mile-an-hour gale.

A CNR engine driver, Mitchell MacDonald, about 52, of Charlottetown, suffered a stroke in his locomotive cab while his train was fighting through the storm to Borden, P.E.I. He died while being taken to hospital.

Two Westport, N.S., fishermen—Gerald Welsh and Donald McDormand—failed to return home in their 43-foot fishing dragger from a trip in the Bay of Fundy. An air search was launched at dawn today.

Hospital emergency wards in many Nova Scotia centres received many patients suffering from heart attacks, overexertion and various injuries.

Today as the storm moved on to Newfoundland, a blinding blizzard halted all air, rail and road traffic in that province except

RAF PLANE SHOT DOWN
BY INDONESIA BATTERY

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (UPI)—Britain announced today that Indonesia anti-aircraft batteries shot down a Royal Air Force observation plane in Sarawak Thursday, killing an RAF chaplain.

The incident near the Malaysian-Indonesian border, coupled with the announced dispatch of U.S. 7th Fleet units into the Indian Ocean, plunged Indonesia's relations with the non-Communist world to a new low.

Defence Review
Urged by Probers

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons defence committee recommended today that the Honest John Artillery rocket be withdrawn from the Canadian Army Brigade in Europe.

"There exists some doubt in the committee as to the military value of having included in the brigade the four Honest John Rocket launchers," the committee said in an interim report to the Commons.

It recommended "that NATO be requested to re-assign the Honest John battery from the brigade group to a more suitable command formation."

This appeared the only recommendation to conflict with government policy and government thinking on future policy. The committee said Canada should continue to maintain forces in Europe and to participate in North American Air Defence Command. Canada should continue to share in defence against the Russian bomber threat.

The 24-member committee said special consideration should be given to changing the role of the RCAF air division in Europe from nuclear bombing to air transport.

It suggested a review to determine the merits or otherwise of giving the CF-104 nuclear jet bomber a conventional capacity as well.

It said study should be made of an airborne role for the brigade in Europe and the two back-up brigades in Canada.

Other recommendations:

1. NATO be requested to relocate the four CF-104 squadrons in France.
2. The brigade in Europe be equipped with armored troop carriers "and other suitable air and surface high mobility combat vehicles."
3. Consultation with Scandinavia

Christmas Reunion Comes Early to Berlin

CP from AP-Reuters

BERLIN—A great and joyful Christmas reunion was in full swing today as West Berliners streamed through the Communist wall to meet relatives in East Berlin for the first time in 28 months.

Nearly 3,000 persons and 307 autos had passed through the five crossing points in the wall some five hours after East German border guards lifted the steel and barbed wire barriers on the West side of the city.

Every elevated train that arrived from the West in the East Berlin station at Friedrichstrasse was greeted with the words: "Dear citizens of West Berlin, we welcome you to the capital of the German Democratic Republic."

The welcome was real enough. The Reds were putting out the red carpet.

Loudspeakers, so often used to hurl propaganda tirades at the West, were proclaiming the Christmas truce.

There was no big crush for any queues. But heavier movement was expected later today when relatives and office close.

More than 30,000 West Berliners are expected to make the trip today. Officials estimate that as many as 800,000 may visit relatives in the East before midnight Jan. 5, when the Christmas crossing ends.

East German guards, who still have orders to shoot to kill if any East Berliner tries to escape to the West, were extremely courteous and West Berliners passed through the controls rapidly.

Guards at the crossing points in the wall said: "Come into Democratic Berlin," but they said it with a smile.

Usually the border guards have only sour looks for the West. But they have evidently had orders that they can relax for this occasion.

They spoke politely to the Western visitors. They helped people with parcels, lifted baby carriages for mothers.

Clutching the precious one-day permits issued by the Communists after long negotiations with the West Berlin city government, men, women and children passed through to the East.

There were smiles and some tears of anticipation as hundreds of people crossed the baumbucke, a bridge over the border River Spree. A long row of braziers, glowing red with coals, lined the approach to warm the crowds in case of delays. Two giant, gaily lit Christmas trees flanked the Western end of the bridge.

At the Friedrichstrasse crossing station Communist officials handed the arrivals pamphlets which said "look around and see for yourself what progress we have made."

The Communists were obviously determined that no hitch would sour the atmosphere after they had lavishly praised generous action.

At the elevated station, guides stepped up to people and said: "Welcome, can I help you?" Some visitors were astonished at being offered a guide to the city in which they have lived all their lives.

The West Berliners were easily spotted in East Berlin. Their clothes were brighter, better made.

"Oh, how smart you look!" exclaimed an East Berlin woman as she hugged her sister.

"Just you wait until you see what's in these parcels," the Officially the visitors were allowed to bring only 30 marks ($7.50) worth of gifts. But the Red guards were not being strict about it.

The main East German Communist newspaper Neues Deutschland said today East German refugees living in West Berlin can also apply for passes if they had crossed to the West before the Berlin wall went up.

This was providing they "have not otherwise violated the laws of the German Democratic Republic," the newspaper said.

It had been assumed by West

German refugees that they would be permitted to cross since they had violated the law. It is a criminal offence to flee from East Germany.

Russians Reinforce Frontier

LONDON (AP) — Russia has reinforced its troops on the frontier with Communist China, Western sources in Moscow report.

Informed officials in London and Paris say a "moderate" eastward movement of Soviet troops from central Russia was detected in October. The army units were understood to be moving toward China's Sinkiang province.

Sinkiang, on China's north-west border with Russia, has been the scene of serious trouble between the two powers during the last two years. In September, Peking charged Soviet agents with "enticing and coercing several tens of thousands of Chinese citizens" into Russia.

Moscow countered that the Chinese were attempting to colonize large tracts of Russian border territory.

Reports on the troop movements gave no indication of any new troubles, although Western officials believe the problems in Sinkiang are by no means resolved.

'AUTONOMY' BATTLE CRY OF STUDENTS

CALGARY (CP) — About 300 students sang "this is our cry—autonomy" at a rally today protesting conditions they felt led to the resignation of Dr. Malcolm Taylor as principal of the University of Alberta campus.

Students' council officials addressed the meeting, held in the university library, calling for severance of administrative ties between the campus and parent University of Alberta, Edmonton.

Dr. Taylor resigned Wednesday and announced he would leave the institution at the end of June to become president of the new University of Victoria in Victoria, B.C.

Both students and the campus staff association have pressed for independence at UAC.

Teachers Win 3.5% Boost

DUNCAN — A salary increase averaging 3.5 per cent has been awarded to Cowichan district's 155 teachers by an arbitration board.

Bill Duyvevaardt, spokesman for the teachers, said Cowichan teachers have "indicated sincere appreciation for the fair and just award of the salary arbitration board."

He said the award will amount to less than one mill to local taxpayers.

The basic salary schedule will be: Elementary conditional teachers, $3,100 to $3,740 with four experience increments of $160 each; elementary basic teachers, $3,600 to $3,750 with 10 increments of $215 each; elementary advanced teachers, $4,000 to $6,300 with 10 increments of $230 each.

Professional conditional teachers, $1,500 to $7,100 with 10 increments of $260 each; professional basic teachers (five years university), $5,100 to $8,180 with 11 increments of $280 each; professional advanced teachers, $5,500 to $8,855 with 11 increments of $305 each.

The range of increased rates is between 2.5 per cent and 5.2 per cent.

An administrative allowance of 10 per cent of their basic salary was awarded to principals of two or more elementary schools.
